FADE IN:

MONTAGE - DAY

- We cruise above blue rolling ocean, white-capped waves-
- Glide over swimmers in the surf-
- Skim above Havana's Jaimanitas Beach-
- Veer along the shore toward-
- Sleek yachts docked at Marina Hemingway with-
- Wealthy American marlin FISHERMEN puffing on Montecristo cigars and partying with PROSTITUTES aboard million-dollar yachts adjacent to:

EXT. WHITE MANSION - DAY

SUPER: MARINA HEMINGWAY, HAVANA CUBA 1995

THREE machinegun-armed Dirección General de Inteligencia government AGENTS in black suits smoke cigarettes in front; the voice of ROBERT LEE (BOBBY) VESCO, 60, is heard:

BOBBY (V.O.)

I grew up poor and wanted to be rich. So I figured out how to become rich. Then I acquired a fleet of jets, yachts, mansions, a family. And like the famous Caribbean pirate, Black Bart, who at the height of his power had a fleet of ships and hundreds of pirates working for him, my success was due to organizational skill, charisma and daring. I had powerful friends and enemies. Some who helped me, and some who wanted to kidnap and kill me. Some people might say I went too far. But all I ever wanted was to achieve the American Dream. So I stole it. And then I disappeared.

FADE TO BLACK:

SUPER: June 9, 1995: WHITE HOUSE BRIEFING

INT. STUDY - DAY

Television screen shows White House press briefing room, American flags, Washington D.C. Press Corps asking White House Press Secretary MIKE MCCURRY questions at podium:

QUESTIONER (O.S.)

Can you say anything more on Robert Vesco, Mike? Are there any negotiations underway for his return?

MCCURRY

Not that I'm aware of.

SUPER: June 9, 1995: U.S. STATE DEPARTMENT BRIEFING

Same television screen now shows CHRISTINE SHELLY, U.S. State Department Spokeswoman, standing behind briefing room's podium, speaking to Washington D.C. Press Corps:

SHELLY

We have told the Government of Cuba that we are interested in getting Mr. Vesco back in the United States as there are pending charges against him here. We are always interested in the return of fugitives from United States justice, from anywhere in the world.

TELEVISION SCREEN - PRESS BRIEFING ROOM

Short rotund, MYRON MUEHLER, early-60s, stands at the rear of the room with his eyes fixed on Shelly; he has close-cropped hair, is impeccably dressed in a navy-blue suit, his I.D. badge reads: "Judge Myron Muehler, U.S. District Court, District of Columbia"

QUESTIONER (O.S.)

Isn't there a treaty involving extradition between the United States and Cuba?

SHELLY

There is a U.S.-Cuba Treaty providing for the mutual extradition of fugitives from justice that was signed in 1904.

QUESTIONER (O.C.)

Well, why don't we get him back?

SUPER: U.S. SENATE HEARING ON NARCOTICS & TERRORISM
MAY 27, 1987

INT. STUDY (SAME AS ABOVE) - DAY

Elegant study, sunlight streaming into room, same television now shows the U.S. Senate hearing: SENATOR JOHN F. KERRY, 40s, questions GORMAN BANNISTER, 30s, of Miami in the witness seat who wears a hood to protect his identity:

BANNISTER

(reading statement)

My name is Gorman Bannister. My father is Everett Bannister. At one time, my father was the top influence peddler in the Bahamas.

KERRY

What did your father do for Vesco?

BANNISTER

My father was a conduit for Robert Vesco to the Prime Minister of the Bahamas, Mr. Lynden Pindling.

KERRY

Did Robert Vesco use his money to buy protection from extradition?

BANNISTER

As a matter of fact, he did. The law was rewritten specifically to protect Robert Lee Vesco from extradition.

SUPER: INDEPENDENT COUNSEL HEARING ON IRAN-CONTRA

Same television now shows Independent Counsel hearing: ALAN FIERS, 40s, sits in the witness seat being questioned:

FIERS

My name is Alan D. Fiers, Chief of CIA's Central American Task Force.

QUESTIONER #1 (O.S.)

Mr. Fiers, tell us what you know about CIA Director Casey's role in handing off to Oliver North, the CIA's Contra support operations?

FIERS

Director Casey told the President: "I'll take care of Central America, Mr. Reagan; don't worry about it." And I was stunned, thinking: if this ever blows up it'll be worse than Watergate.

DISSOLVE TO:

Television now shows COLONEL OLIVER NORTH, 40s, in the witness seat:

COLONEL OLIVER NORTH

I'm absolutely certain that I believed, when we put in place the concept of using Iranian arms sales money to aid the Nicaraguan Contras, and to do those other things, that I had the authority of the President to do it.

QUESTIONER #2 (O.S.)

Colonel North, who was the operative that controlled this money?

POV behind chair of seated bearded Bobby Vesco, 60, facing the televised hearing, TV remote control in his hand, thick gold bracelet adorns his wrist, lit Montecristo cigar between his fingers, he clicks television off, exhales a cloud of smoke-

BOBBY

The tangled webs we weave.

Close outside the study's window, a Giant Kingbird perched on a branch stares at Bobby-Telephone RINGS... RINGS... RINGS...

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. BUNGALOW - NIGHT

SUPER: EAST DETROIT, 1951

A single light on in the old five-room house-

INT. KITCHEN - NIGHT

YOUNG BOBBY VESCO, 16, and his father, DONALD VESCO, 40s, sit at the table constructing a plastic model airplane-

Books on kitchen table: "Engineering Supersonic Aerodynamics," "Aerodynamics of Supersonic Flight," and a Fortune Magazine titled "Fourteen Methods of Operating in the Stock Market"

DONALD (O.S.)

A simple system is, like the components in a ballpoint pen-

YOUNG BOBBY

-Boring Pop-

DONALD

-to more complex systems with millions of components, assembled in hundreds of subsystems, such as a commercial jet, è chiaro?

Bobby ponders the concept-

YOUNG BOBBY

I want my own jet. How do I-(picks up Fortune magazine)
What about financial systems?

DONALD

Financial systems?

YOUNG BOBBY

(points to magazine)
Yeah, Pop, the stock market.

DONALD

That's a scheme, not a system! An attrazione for charlatans and ebetes -- for fools! You have to build something, Bobby, for people, that has value, to make their life easier. Making money from money is, heartless.

Young Bobby smiles; clock on the wall indicates: 1:40 A.M.

INT. CAR (MOVING) - DAY

Young Bobby sits in front passenger seat staring contemptuously out the window at KIDS playing ball next to a school, the KIDS spot Bobby, point at him and laugh derisively, Bobby looks away, then toward his mother, BARBARA, 30s, driving:

BARBARA

I know it was the best technical school. It just cost too much, for your Father.

BOBBY

(turns, glares at Kids)
I'm getting a job.

Barbara looks at Bobby, smiles warmly.

EXT. CITY OF DETROIT - DAYBREAK

Muted red sun floats above Detroit River, red rays filter through hanging haze, SOUNDS of the city CRANK to life like an old Model A Ford.

EXT. CONSTRUCTION SITE - DAYBREAK

Young Bobby, 17, stares at a huge pile of discarded bricks while talking to the intimidating project FOREMAN, 30s:

FOREMAN

You're fuckin' estimating-

YOUNG BOBBY

-Five- to six-hundred unused half-bricks. Breaking new bricks to fit, over and over instead of using perfectly good half-bricks is wasting the builder, Mr. Bonelli, time and money.

FOREMAN

Who the fuck are-

YOUNG BOBBY

-Mr. Bonelli is my father's friend.

FOREMAN

Fuck me. Whattya want?

YOUNG BOBBY

To be a bricklayer. You should have your best bricklayers working at the corners. And you should screen your sand for pebbles to save time. Then maybe you'll get your crew up to six-hundred bricks a day per man. That's what you're after.

FOREMAN

You finished?

YOUNG BOBBY

Sure.

FOREMAN

Then move those fuckin' bricks!
(walks away)
Goddam smart ass.

Young Bobby studies the bulky brick pile-

Foreman stops, turns and looks at Bobby-

FOREMAN

What's a matter, Einstein? It's a simple pile of broken bricks.
(points)
From there, to there.

BOBBY

I know. I'm planning the system design in order to execute the easiest mode of transfer. The complex-

FOREMAN

-Just move the fuckin' bricks!

Young Bobby shakes his head, bends down while staring at Foreman with disdain, starts moving the broken half-bricks, slowly, one at a time... Foreman fumes, turns, walks away; Young Bobby smiles.

EXT. MELZER HOUSE - DAY

Old Detroit tract house sits on quiet street with similar shabby houses in this poor inner-city neighborhood-

Young Bobby stands nearby looking toward the house-

THREE MELZER BOYS, all in their TEENS, stand together in the yard staring at Young Bobby with barely subdued hostility-

Plain but sweet PATRICIA MELZER, 17, appears behind the screened front door, she looks out toward Young Bobby-

Young Bobby stares at the Boys, suddenly flashes a new white baseball from behind his back, he tosses it up and down in his hand, he tosses it to OLDEST BOY, 18, in the yard-

Oldest Boy catches ball, looks at it closely and then looks back at Young Bobby, smirks at him-

Young Bobby takes a baseball bat from behind his back, he tosses it underhand to the two Younger Boys who catch it together and fight over it, Oldest Boy grabs the bat, yanks it away from them, drops the ball on them-

OLDEST BOY
C'mon, pitch me the ball!
(runs to end of yard)

Young Bobby watches Boys for a moment, looks at Patricia in doorway, walks across yard, past the Boys, to Patricia, she slowly opens the screen door to him as he arrives-

YOUNG BOBBY
Hi Patricia.

PATRICIA
(bashful)
Hi Bobby.

YOUNG BOBBY
Want to take a walk with me?

PATRICIA
Um... okay, sure. But not too far.

Young Bobby smiles, extends his hand to her, she looks down at it, pauses, then takes his hand, she lights up, Young Bobby grasps her hand while gazing into her eyes.

EXT. WAYNE COUNTY COURT HOUSE - DAY

Dressed in their finest clothes, Young Bobby, 17, in dark suit and Patricia, 17, in white dress run excitedly up the steps to front doors, Young Bobby gallantly opens door for smiling Patricia, gently guides her inside.

INT. WAYNE COUNTY COURT HOUSE - DAY

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, 40s, finishes reading marriage vows M.O.S., closes bible, smiles at Patricia and Young Bobby, they slide plain silver rings onto each other's fingers, embrace and kiss, they smile and beam joy into each other's eyes.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. PORCH SWING - NIGHT

Young Bobby, 21, and Patricia (Pat), 21, sit on the swing holding hands, they whisper to each other, their silver wedding bands visible on their ring fingers, Pat giggles and snuggles against him, Young Bobby puts his arm around her, he looks up at the night sky-

YOUNG BOBBY

Four years of bricklaying and I'm nowhere. I built myself a goddamn dungeon. I'm a prisoner here.

PAT

It's a good job, Bobby. Good money. It's enough for us.

YOUNG BOBBY

I envision bricks of gold for us, Pat, not clay and shale.

(beat)

We gotta get out of Detroit.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. TRAIN STATION PLATFORM - MORNING

SUPER: ROWAYTON, CONNECTICUT 1961

Bobby, 25, stands at the rear of the platform reading the Wall Street Journal amid a crowd of older commuter BUSINESSMEN-

Train's BELLS are heard, Bobby folds the paper, walks toward the tracks-

Train pulls in as Bobby smoothly navigates his way in front of the BUSINESSMEN, stops and stands at the exact spot on the platform where the train's doors stop and slide open, Bobby is first to climb aboard.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. BACKYARD - DUSK

Bobby walks across his lawn to his neighbor's small patio; neighbor FLOYD, early-30s, drinks a gin & tonic while tending to hamburgers on his flaming barbeque:

FLOYD

Bobby boy! How goes it?

BOBBY

I did it, Floyd. I quit Olin. I'm starting my own show.

FLOYD

Quit? But you're just a kid, and you told me that you're broke!

BOBBY

I'm borrowing the bread. Going to be a millionaire in five years.

FLOYD

(laughs at Bobby)
But you can't-

BOBBY

-You're right! You can't make big money when you're broke. My new company's called Aluminum Services Inc. I'm going to buy and sell things for small and mid-size machine and metal shops. It's what I do best. I'm going to be rich, Floyd. If you have any money, give it to me now, and you'll get rich with me.

FLOYD

Thanks for the invite, Kid but that kind of risk scares the shit out of me. Good luck, man, you're going to need it.

BOBBY

Big mistake, Floyd. You gotta have vision, and a strategy to succeed these days. You need drive and determination. The whole nine yards.

FLOYD

(flipping burgers)

I know, I know... Hey, my brother-in-law works for this technological company out in Caldwell, in Jersey; I think it's called Capture Seal or Captive Seals, something like that. Check it out.

BOBBY

Captive Seal?

FLOYD

Yeah, tell 'em I sent you.

INT. ROWAYTON HOUSE - DAY

Pat holds infant baby DAWN and gazes out the back window; Bobby enters with a bouquet of flowers; Pat, startled, turns from the window, faces Bobby-

PAT

Bobby, flowers? We can't afford-

-Bobby walks rapidly to her and Dawn, throws his arms around them, he gives them a big hug and kisses them both, Pat looks at him suspiciously-

BOBBY

Get packed, we're headed to Jersey!

PAT

What are you talking about? We just got settled. I'm not-

BOBBY

-Olin made me quit my job. So I'm going into business, for myself. We're moving to Denville.

PAT

What does that mean? They made you quit? You're out of work, and we're moving, again?!

BOBBY

I'm going to be my own boss. We're going to be wealthy, Pat.

Baby Dawn cries in Pat's arms, Pat gets teary-

PAT

This doesn't make sense! We have no money, and you, quit your job?
This is nuts! God, Bob, you've gone crazy!

Pat enters bedroom and SLAMS the door; Bobby lights a KOOL menthol cigarette and walks to the window, he peers outside.

INT. 1957 PLYMOUTH AUTOMOBILE (MOVING) - NIGHT

Bobby drives a gravel road, passes a sign with an arrow on it indicating: "Jersey City Reservoir" He turns, drives a little further, stops; gravel dust swirls in front of the dim headlights, the car is engulfed in billowing dust-

-Appearing suddenly amid the dust in front of the car is dark hulking GANGSTER #1, 40s, wearing a black Fedora hat, black coat, and black gloves; deadly serious, Gangster #1 makes a cutting motion across his throat with his hand-

EXT. PLYMOUTH - NIGHT

Bobby stares at him, quickly cuts car's lights, turns car off-

GANGSTER #1 (O.S.)

Get outta the fuckin' car.

Bobby opens the door and gets out-

GANGSTER #1 (CONT'D)

Come 'ere, now.

Bobby walks toward Gangster #1 obscured in dust & darkness-

(turns and walks)

Folla.

Bobby follows Gangster #1 to reservoir's edge, they stop-

GANGSTER #2 (O.S.)

This is Vesco?

GANGSTER #1

(turns to Bobby)

Dunno. You Vesco?

BOBBY

Yes.

GANGSTER #1

Good. You see this poor schmuck here?

DEAD MAN, 30s, lies half on the bank, half in the water with half his head blown off-

He wasn't Vesco.

Bobby stiffens-

With his foot, GANGSTER #2, tall and dressed like Gangster #1, rolls Dead Man into the water, he submerges; Gangster #2 picks up a suitcase from the ground behind him-

GANGSTER #2

Mr. Faccetti's impressed with you.
Been lookin' to diversify, legit.

Gangster #2 stares at Bobby, passes suitcase to him-

GANGSTER #2 (CONT'D)

Good luck to you, Mr. Vesco.

BOBBY

(takes heavy case)
Thank you. Sir.

The Gangsters: cold eyes, expressionless, stare at Bobby-

GANGSTER #2

Curious. How old're you, Mr. Vesco?

BOBBY

Twenty-five, Sir.

GANGSTER #2

Must be pretty sharp.

BOBBY

I might be.

GANGSTER #1

Either you is, or you ain't.

BOBBY

I am.

GANGSTER #2

I guess we'll see. Listen, Kid, I hope you don't see us again. It won't be nearly as pleasant.

Bobby nods at them, lugs suitcase to the Plymouth, opens trunk, hoists suitcase into it, closes trunk lid, slowly turns his head, looks slyly toward the Gangsters-

-Road is dark, empty, dusty, silent.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. CAPTIVE SEAL CORPORATION - DAY

Small run-down one-story factory shed has a sign above the front door indicating: "CAPTIVE SEAL CORPORATION"

Bobby's old 1957 Plymouth is parked near front door-

INT. CAPTIVE SEAL (CS) - DAY

Factory is NOISY, Bobby talks M.O.S. with CS OWNER, 50s-

TEN ASSEMBLY WORKERS, 20s, stand on both sides of a table assembling tiny components of small metal valves-

FIVE MACHINISTS, 30s, operate advanced technology manufacturing machines that produce precise miniature valve components that are passed in small boxes to the Assemblers, a large box filled with completed valves sits at the end of the table-

Bobby and CS Owner smiling, they shake hands, Bobby pats CS Owner on the arm, exits; Owner claps his hands to motivate his workers.

EXT. METAL WORKS FACTORY - DAY

Bobby drives old Plymouth, parks near entrance of decrepit old plant with sign above the door that indicates: "METAL WORKS":

BOBBY (V.O.)

In my business of buying & selling machine shop parts I had this problem of accounts receivable.

(MORE)

BOBBY (CONT'D)

Some went bad, which was actually good, because it led me into acquisition strategies that accelerated my business plan. But it was bad because I still had negative cash flow. And I needed capital to grow.

Bobby exits car with his briefcase, enters plant.

INT. METAL WORKS (MW) OFFICE - DAY

Office desktop littered with invoices, unpaid bills, collection notices; Bobby sits in owner's chair behind the desk; MW OWNER, 60s, stands in front of his own desk defiantly, glares down at Bobby-

BOBBY

In consideration of your unpaid debt to me, for sales commissions owed, in the amount of nineteen-thousand, two-hundred-dollars, you will transfer to me, today, a sixty-percent equity position in your company, in the form of preferred stock. You follow me?

MW OWNER

(angry)

Is this legal?

BOBBY

(rises from chair)

Yes, of course. I'll buy you lunch while my attorney writes it up. This is a very good deal for you.

MW OWNER

Fuck you very much. I ain't hungry. I've heard all about you and your flim-flam stock for debt deals. I just might make a call to the S.E.C. to see what they think about your obviously brazen thievery.

(picks up phone)

BOBBY

S.E.C.? If you put the S.E.C. on me I will put your fucking lights out.

(MORE)

BOBBY (CONT'D)
 Got it, Pal? I fucking know people.
 Italians. Know what I mean?

Owner glares, slowly puts phone down-

BOBBY (CONT'D)
 Don't be stupid. I'm back in an hour for your signature.
 (exits) Deadbeat.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. PLANT OFFICE - DAY

PLANT OWNER, 60's, aims a double-barrel sawed-off shotgun at Bobby standing a few feet away with his hands raised-

BOBBY (calmly)
 Listen asshole, you owe me sixteen-thousand dollars. I'm not leaving without the money or an ownership stake in your plant.

PLANT OWNER
 I said git, now!

Plant Owner FIRES shotgun--rock salt in the shotgun shell LOUDLY PELTS the office wall just above Bobby's head-

BOBBY
 (ducking)
 You crazy fuck!

Bobby instinctively lunges forward, grabs barrel of the gun and rips it out of Plant Owner's hands, he swings it around and CRACKS it HARD against Plant Owner's face, who falls to the floor; Bobby aims the gun down at Plant Owner writhing in pain and fear on the floor holding his bloody face-

BOBBY (CONT'D)
 I'm tired of this bullshit! I sell you fuckers my products and you don't pay? That's not how this works! This is fucking America for christ sake!

Bobby FIRES the other barrel's load of rock salt into the floor next to Plant Owner's head--he whimpers in fear-

BOBBY (CONT'D)
I need capital goddammit!

Bobby takes his briefcase off the desk, exits with shotgun.

EXT. RANCH HOUSE - DUSK

Old Plymouth parked in driveway.

SUPER: DENVILLE, NEW JERSEY

INT. KITCHEN - DUSK

Exhausted, Pat sits at table sipping cup of tea; she stares at unpaid bills for telephone, gas, electric service; Bobby, beer bottle in hand, walks to her-

BOBBY
(gives her cash)
Pay the phone and electric. I should be getting a check soon.

PAT
From who? You're working for these skeevy companies that can't pay you. Where's it going to come-

BOBBY
-But now we have ownership stakes in these companies. The potential upside when their stock rises will be enormous. We'll be rich.
(swigs beer)

(stands)
Stop saying that! We're fucking broke! I can't live like this. We have children, Bob. They need clothes, and school supplies. Food for christ sake! What you're doing is, irresponsible. Say it, Bob.
(beat)
You don't know what you're doing!

BOBBY

I know exactly what I'm doing, Pat. You're too impatient. In a few months we'll be through this, this brief predicament. You'll have to trust me. My plan will work.

PAT

You have to do something, now, a real job, with regular pay. We're just regular people, Bob!

BOBBY

We are not regular people, Pat! At least I'm not. I'm too smart to be a fucking regular.

Bobby goes to her, puts his arms around her, speaks softly-

BOBBY

There's a company, a small company, called Captive Seal. I'm going to take it over.

PAT

Oh God, Bobby. Really? Captive Seal?
(beat)
It sounds like a goddam circus act.

BOBBY

It is.

EXT. CAPTIVE SEAL (CS) - DAY

Bobby's new 1965 Cadillac gleams in the sunlight; he stands next to it with CS Owner, his briefcase lies open on the hood of the car, they smoke cigarettes, CS Owner is distraught-

APPRAISER, 30s, exits CS shop, walks to Bobby, shows him two appraisal documents, Bobby looks at them-

Appraisal document #1 shows an asset value of $52,000; Bobby separates the two documents slightly, revealing document #2, under #1, with an appraisal value of $190,000; Bobby takes that document, folds it and slides it into his pocket as he secretly slips the Appraiser a folded hundred-dollar bill, Appraiser walks to his car, tips his hat, and leaves-

Bobby hands CS Owner appraisal document #1-

CS OWNER
(looks at appraisal)
Fifty-two?! That can't be right.

BOBBY
That's from your appraiser. Mine will derive a much lower value.

CS OWNER
How did I get here?
(beat)
What's your fucking offer?

BOBBY
I'll pay forty-five thousand, in personal promissory notes, over five years. This is a solid and predictable income stream for you.

CS OWNER
Forty-five, for the whole company?
Are you fucking kidding me?!

BOBBY
No. You owe me, and others, over one hundred and twenty-thousand.
You're fucked. If you don't accept it, I'm taking my claim to the court house and file an involuntary bankruptcy petition against you. You're out.

CS OWNER
(turns, walks to plant)
Fuck!

BOBBY
My attorney will bring the papers for your signature tonight. You made the right decision. You got something for nothing!

CS Owner glares at Bobby, flips him the bird, enters his plant; Bobby smirks, gets into brand-new Caddy, drives away.

EXT. DENVILLE STATE BANK - DAY

Bobby's new Cadillac is parked near the front doors; Bobby is visible inside the bank through the large front glass windows-

-Bobby sits in front of the desk of BANKER, 50s; he points out the window at the Caddy, Banker turns around and looks at it, he smiles and nods his head to Bobby-

INT. BANK - DAY

Bobby and Banker sit facing each other at Banker's desk-

BOBBY

We're strategically positioned for rapid growth. You see, we're at an inflection point now with several large new aerospace contracts rolling in. We're launching, so to speak, like a Gemini rocket.

BANKER

(chuckles)
The NASA of New Jersey, huh?
(looks over appraisal)
These assets look sufficient, Mr. Vesco. I'll get the loan paperwork processed immediately. I look forward to a long and prosperous relationship.

They stand and shake hands-

BOBBY

Bet on it.

EXT. CADILLAC DEALERSHIP - DUSK

Bobby drives the Cadillac up the driveway, parks, exits; SALESMAN, 40s, approaches quickly:

SALESMAN

How was your test drive, Mr. Vesco?
(smiles)
I was wondering if you were coming back!

BOBBY

It's a very nice automobile, very nice. But, I just don't love it.
(tosses keys, walks away)
I must be a Lincoln man.

Bobby gets in his old Plymouth, starts it-

SALESMAN
 (follows Bobby)
 Hey, I thought we had a deal?!

Bobby waves, drives off the lot.

EXT. RANCH HOUSE - NIGHT

Plymouth parked in driveway.

INT. KITCHEN - NIGHT

Bobby and Pat stare at each other, Pat steps forward and hugs Bobby, and releases a combination of joy and relief; the signed loan documents for the Captive Seal acquisition are visible on the table.

EXT. ROADHOUSE BAR - NIGHT

Gleaming black Cadillac parked side-by-side facing opposite direction of Bobby's Plymouth; the lowered drivers' windows in close proximity; Gangster #1, (same as before) in the Caddy-

Bobby passes Gangster #1 a large thick envelope-

GANGSTER #1
 (looks in envelope)
 What do you call a guy with no arms and no legs who falls into the Jersey reservoir?

BOBBY (concerned)
 Uh, dead?

GANGSTER #1
 No. Bob! Like you.
 (smiles)
 Don't worry, Bobby. We like you.

Gangster #1 drives off; Bobby smiles, puts the car in gear.

EXT. LARGE OFFICE BUILDING - DAY

SUPERIMPOSE: BETHESDA, MARYLAND 1965

Brand new 1965 Lincoln Continental parked in front, CHAUFFEUR, 30s, leans against the car smoking; large sign in front indicates: "MARTIN MARIETTA AEROSPACE"

INT. CONFERENCE ROOM - DAY

Bobby in navy blue suit, white shirt, red tie stands near an "over-head" machine that projects on a screen in the front of the room a detailed image of the engineering diagrams and specifications for several Captive Seal valves.

The room is filled with ENGINEERS, MILITARY OFFICERS and BUSINESSMEN listening in rapt attention as Bobby speaks:

BOBBY

To be completely transparent, I do not know all the specs for your particular systems but ours persist in many pressurized feed systems consisting of high-pressure gas tanks, pressure regulators, propellant tanks, propellant valves, and most feed lines. I believe with some minor customization, we have the solution that you require.

LEAD ENGINEER

Very interesting, Mr. Vesco. You are leading your competitors in solving most of our cryovalve project needs.

BOBBY

Good to hear but not surprising. Our teams are led by innovators and aerospace visionaries. Like me, they dream of the future of space exploration and execute flawlessly against our product development strategy to deliver breakthrough solutions.

ARMY COLONEL

Very impressive, Mr. Vesco. Thank you for coming in today. Do you have an engineering degree? Not many salesmen in our industry do.

BOBBY

Yes, from Wayne State University.
(modestly)
Summa cum laude.

ARMY COLONEL

A real go-getter! And, more importantly, someone I can trust.

(extends hand)

We look forward to partnering with you and your team, Mr. Vesco.

BOBBY

(shakes his hand)

I am very pleased to hear that, Colonel. It will be our pleasure to be in business with you and the United States government.

EXT. LARGE OFFICE BUILDING - DAY

Colonel and Bobby walk to doorway, doors open automatically; they shake hands, wave good-bye; Bobby walks to 1965 Lincoln Continental parked a few feet away; Colonel watches Bobby intently as Chauffeur opens rear door for him; Bobby slides into rear seat, immediately picks up the car's phone, makes a call, waves to Colonel; Colonel smiles, waves good-bye, re-enters building; Chauffeur gets in, starts car-

BOBBY

(on phone)

We won the contract... yes, I know they need cryogenic valves. I re-wrote the presentation, so, as of today, we also produce technologically advanced, cryogenic valves. ...yes we do. As of today. There's a company in Florida that's a perfect fit for us, exactly at this moment in time. ...I'll tell you precisely how when I get back. ...yeah, Ralph, I fucking did it.

(hangs up phone)

CHAUFFEUR

Mr. Vesco, the car has to be back now to avoid the late fee. You'll have to pay twenty dollars extra for that phone call, okay?

BOBBY

(puts on sunglasses)

Nickels & dimes for the props, Kid.

Bobby lights a Kool cigarette, exhales a cloud of smoke-

BOBBY (CONT'D)
You can't hustle the big bread without them.

DISSOLVE TO:

SERIES OF SHOTS

EXT. VESCO'S NEW ESTATE - DAY

SUPER: BOONTON, NEW JERSEY 1968

Bobby, 33, and Pat, 33, stand with a REALTOR in the backyard, Realtor points to a grassy area of adjacent vacant property-

BOBBY (V.O.)
I bought companies and merged them together into one huge conglomerate called: International Controls Corporation, or ICC for short. I also added acreage to our Jersey estate.

BACKYARD SWIMMING POOL

Vesco children: DANNY, 15, DAWN, 8, TONY, 12, ROBERT JR., 5, and Pat are all under water, sitting still on the pool bottom with eyes wide open, arms out, like lifeless bodies-

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)
We were drowning in debt, and had to grow fast by adding new companies and revenue.

HORSE BARN

Dawn leads a black Quarter horse past the pool toward entrance of a huge new horse barn-

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)
I took ICC public through a merger with the Florida company I told Ralph about called Cryogenics that was already listed on the stock exchange. That way I avoided the onerous S.E.C. filing and registration process. It was fast and slick.

INT. HORSE BARN

Dawn leads same Quarter horse into the huge stable with eighteen stalls and two riding rings-

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)

Then I issued more ICC stock that I used to acquire more companies. I was always on the hunt for vulnerable companies and easy money. I was like a great white shark that never slept, requiring a never-ending flow of revenue-rich companies, or I would drown.

(beat)

Sleep? Not for me. The bed is a coffin.

INT. ELEGANT RESTAURANT - NIGHT

Candles light the dinner table and empty martini glasses; Bobby smiles at beaming Pat, WAITER brings two more martinis; Pat's new diamond and ruby ring glitters in the candlelight-

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)

Within a year, my equity stake in ICC made me a millionaire.

Bobby and Pat lean into each other and kiss; they both swig deeply from their martini glasses; their drunk smiles slowly fade as they descend into an escalating argument M.O.S. Pat becomes angry, slams her fist down on the table top like THUNDER, her diamond ring FLASHES like a lightning bolt; Bobby stares at her with contempt.

EXT. ICC BUILDING - DAY

SUPER: FAIRFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Sign in front indicates: "INTERNATIONAL CONTROLS CORPORATION" Plant Manager (future VP of ICC), RALPH DODD, early-30s, and Bobby stand in front smoking cigarettes-

BOBBY

Bank of America is going to give me six-and-a-half million to acquire a few more glorified machine shops... And then...

DODD
Yeah, and then? What?

Bobby flicks his cigarette, puts his arm around Dodd's shoulders, they walk to front door of ICC-

BOBBY
Then Ralph, we're going to hunt us down a fucking whale.

DODD Who?

BOBBY
(stops walking)
I-O-S.
(beat)
Meyer Lansky and Bernie Cornfeld's IOS. The largest money-laundering network in the world.

DODD (stunned)
Fuckin' Moby-Dick.
(worried)
But that's Mafia money, right?

BOBBY
It is, Ralph. Until it isn't.

EXT. NASSAU AIRPORT - DAY

THE BEGINNING OF THE END'S "FUNKY NASSAU" PLAYS OVER:

SUPER: NASSAU, BAHAMAS 1968

Gleaming Learjet rolls across tarmac to a private hangar, stops, "IOS" inscribed on its tail, side door opens and stairway unfolds to the tarmac-

Short, plump, balding, superbly dressed BERNIE CORNFELD, 40, CEO of IOS, emerges in doorway with a smile on his face and two hot mini-skirted HOOKERS, early-20s, on each arm, he descends the stairway like a king, the Hookers follow-

Another Learjet with "IOS" on the tail rolls up to the hangar-

The third Learjet with "IOS" on the tail rolls up, then the fourth jet with "IOS" on the tail rolls up--

--the fifth jet, and still another jet until there are six Learjets parked side-by-side at the hangar with an army of IOS EMPLOYEES descending the stairs in simultaneous harmony-

Bernie marches arm-in-arm with the Hookers, leading his IOS Army toward the entrance of the hangar.

EXT. PORCUPINE CLUB - NIGHT

CREAM'S "SUNSHINE OF YOUR LOVE" PLAYS OVER:

SUPER: PARADISE ISLAND

INT. PORCUPINE CLUB - NIGHT

Bernie Cornfeld sits at a table surrounded by beautiful YOUNG HOOKERS, 20s, he tells them humorous stories M.O.S., all the Hookers/Women drink and laugh-

Bobby, 33, stands nearby chatting M.O.S. with ALLAN BUTLER, 30s, a resident of Nassau who co-owns Butler's Bank with his wife, SHIRLEY (OAKES) BUTLER, 30s, who sits next to Bernie; Los Angeles-based stockbroker, TOMMY RICHARDSON, 30s, chats with Bobby and Allan-

Bobby stares scathingly at Bernie-

ALLAN

(to Bobby)

My wife Shirley's father, Sir Harry Oakes, was a gold prospector who became one of the world's richest men.

TOMMY

I'm making a killing in the market right now and would be happy to consult with Sir Harry on a strategy. No charge of course.

BOBBY

Sir Harry was murdered, Tommy. He won't be needing a strategy.

Tommy's embarrassed by his faux pas-

ALLAN

(grabs bottle of Champagne from passing Waiter)

The case was never solved but one story is that Meyer Lansky sent men to rough Harry up, because of his opposition to Lansky building a casino here. And they accidentally went too far.

(swigs from Champagne bottle)

BOBBY

Mr. Lansky, the Mob's Accountant. The undefeated and reigning champ of the world's dirty money.

ALLAN

(stares at Bernie)

Look at that pretentious fuck. The snake charmer has Shirley under his spell.

Allan walks to entranced Shirley seated next to Bernie, Allan speaks to Shirley, she doesn't respond, Allan pours Champagne over Bernie's head--Bernie rises, starts throwing wild punches at Allan whom he can't see due to Champagne in his eyes, Allan laughs at flailing Bernie; Bobby stares at pathetic Bernie.

EXT. BUTLER HOUSE TERRACE - MORNING

Bobby, Allan, Tommy seated on the terrace of the magnificent estate with a spectacular view across the channel of Paradise Island; HOUSE MAN serves coffee-

BOBBY

Too much jet-set, not enough drive. He's fat, lazy and sloppy. IOS is a wide open target. The jackpot.

TOMMY

Bernie hates you. Sees you as a corporate raider, an Italian gangster.

BOBBY

Funny, I see myself more like Steve McQueen in the Thomas Crown Affair.

(MORE)

BOBBY (CONT'D)

Allan, your merger with Warburg failed, and you and Shirley are overextended. It's time to reconsider my IOS proposal.

ALLAN

Sure, Bobby. I can provide you with whatever credit support you need.

BOBBY

Good. Tommy, get your Learjet ready; we're heading back to Jersey.

TOMMY

You got it, Steve.

Bobby stares at smiling Tommy; Tommy stops smiling.

INT. BOBBY'S ICC OFFICE - DAY

Ralph Dodd paces by Bobby's desk; Bobby stands at his desk with phone handset held in place between his cheek and shoulder while constructing a model of the ten-gun pirate sloop: "FORTUNE" and talking to PRESIDENT RICHARD NIXON, mid-50s:

BOBBY

Yes, Dick, I can work with Rebozo... at Key Biscayne Bank, delivered to Bebe personally. ...I know Crosby, too, he's an associate of Lansky's. ...yes, Mr. President, I'm about to acquire Paradise Island; the casino, hotel, all of it. ...yes Sir, I can add you as a silent partner. ...you're welcome, Dick. ...please call me Bobby. ...I look forward to working with you too. ...yes, I will contact your nephew, Donald, right away. ...good-bye, Sir.

(ends call)

DODD

The President sounds like a crook!

BOBBY

(adds parts to the ship)

Not a crook, Ralph. A businessman, just like us.

DODD

Bob, we're in deep debt! Our stock is at its fifty-two-week low. You shouldn't have donated the fiftythousand to Nixon. Fifty-thousand bucks for a goddamn dinner?!

BOBBY

(unperturbed)

Building goodwill, Ralph; planning for the future.

DODD

We're not going to have a future!
Except maybe in a Federal Pen!

BOBBY

Have you seen "Easy Rider" yet?

DODD

What?! Easy rider? What's that?

BOBBY

Not sure. Seems to be about freedom.

DODD

A movie?

BOBBY

(works on ship)

Yeah, a road film, about a man, a cool rogue named Captain America.
His rootlessness and ride for easy money, turns into an apocalyptic journey.

(affixes the mainsail)

The guy went looking for America, and couldn't find it anywhere...
And, in the end, he blew it.

FADE TO BLACK:

SUPER: NEW YORK TIMES HEADLINE: "U.S. SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION INVESTIGATES ROBERT L. VESCO AND INTERNATIONAL CONTROLS CORPORATION"

CHEECH & CHONG'S SONG "EARACHE MY EYE" PLAYS OVER:

EXT. CITY SIDEWALK - NIGHT

Man's scuffed leather sandals as he swaggers along the sidewalk, his frayed blue jean bell-bottoms, numerous cloth patches sewn on them: War Is Organized Murder, Peace Sign, Never Trust The Man, etc. this is DONALD (DON-DON) NIXON, JR., early-20s, nephew of President Richard Nixon, in full hippie attire; Don-Don bops along nonchalantly smoking a joint, slows down as he approaches a black limousine with blacked-out windows parked at the curb, he stops near the rear window and looks at it, he looks around, flicks the roach, bends over and puts his face and hands against the window to look inside-- abruptly, the electric window OPENS downward, scares Don-Don who, stoned and off balance, almost falls inside through the open window:

DON-DON

Fuck man! What the fuck?!

Don-Don straightens up quickly, pushes away from the car-

Bobby's voice from inside the limo:

BOBBY (V.O.) (O.S.)

Hello Donald. Get in, please.

Rear door swings open, Don-Don looks around, climbs into the car, closes the door-

INT. LIMOUSINE - NIGHT

Bobby, wearing black sunglasses, sits in rear seat smoking a Kool menthol cigarette facing Don-Don-

BOBBY

My name, is Bobby Vesco.

DON-DON

Uh, okay... Did my Dad pay you to kidnap me? So I don't become an embarrassment to my Uncle? You know my uncle is the President, right? Just so you know, man.

BOBBY

I do, we're very good friends.

(beat)

Donald, I'd like you to come work for me.

DON-DON

Call me Don-Don, man. Look, Mr. Vesco, I'm a freak, man. What could I possibly do for you?

BOBBY

You'd be my consultant. I travel a lot, private plane and yacht. My wife and I could use your help. How does that sound?

DON-DON

Not sure I have a choice, but okay. I'm running kinda low on bread, if you catch my drift?

BOBBY

Yes. I'll have one of my guys take you to get some new clothes and a haircut. That okay with you?

DON-DON

Sure. I survived Vietnam, I can survive a haircut. I haven't showered in a week, man.

BOBBY

I can tell.

(electric windows go down)

Ok, Don-Don; I'll be in touch.

DON-DON

Hey man, you wouldn't happen to have any of that new kickass super grass going around, called, Toledo Window Box?

Bobby stares at Don-Don... shakes his head no.

EXT. VESCO HOUSE BACKYARD - NIGHT

House, swimming pool, horse barn, and trees are lit with floodlights--

--suddenly a strobe light from above flashes across the yard; grass, tree limbs--leaves are hit with a huge gust of wind, a helicopter descends into frame with "R.L.V." scripted on its door, it lands gently in the grass, door opens, Bobby climbs out, ducks and walks toward Pat, Danny, Tony, Dawn, Robert Jr. and Don-Don standing together waiting for him, Bobby hugs his Kids, gives Pat a kiss, the Kids gather around them and hug them all together, Don-Don hesitates, then joins the group while awkwardly trying to hug them all, in the b.g., the helicopter rises and veers away swiftly.

INT. BEDROOM - NIGHT

Bobby and Pat lie in bed, apart, Bobby smokes a cigarette-

PAT

IOS is run by organized crime? The Mafia!? Oh my god. No, Bobby.

BOBBY

It's disorganized crime, actually. It'll be like taking candy from a bunch of babies.

PAT

I don't understand why you want to get involved in a mess like that!

BOBBY

It's where the money is, Pat. I want you and the kids to have the best of everything. It's my gift to you.

PAT

But all we really want is you. And you're never here!

(tears)

BOBBY

I know, Pat.

Bobby stubs out cigarette butt in ashtray on bedside table-

BOBBY (CONT'D)

I'm working on it.

He tries to kiss her goodnight, she rolls away from him.

EXT. BERMUDA (AERIAL SHOT) - DAYBREAK

Island encased in a bluish-green watery membrane.

INT. BOEING 707 PLANE - BOBBY'S OFFICE (FLYING) - DAYBREAK

Top edge of the rising sun is visible through the oval window-

Bobby at his desk reading various legal documents; topless STEWARDESS, 20s, in a miniskirt and heels enters, hands him a cup of coffee and gives him a kiss, Bobby smiles at her as she struts out of the office.

INT. CASTLE HARBOUR HOTEL CONFERENCE ROOM - DAY

SUPER: BERMUDA

Smoky room, in disorder, opened briefcases, tangled phone lines, seated haggard IOS Directors: HENRY BUHL, ED COWETT, DR. PIERRE RINFRET, PAT BROWN, AMBASSADOR JAMES ROOSEVELT, WILSON WYATT, SIR ERIC WYNDHAM-WHITE, and ALAN CONWILL, 50s/60s, stare at Bobby in mid-speech:

BOBBY

You're all self-dealing criminals.
The S.E.C. is going to throw you all in federal prison!

RINFRET

(stands abruptly)
Who the hell do you think you are threatening this Board of Directors?

WYATT

I vote against jail. Let him talk.

BROWN

I second it. Continue Mr. Vesco.

Stunned, Rinfret looks around the table and sits down-

BOBBY

You've violated your fiduciary responsibilities, misappropriated funds, abused your power, and if this tragic excuse for a company isn't straightened out soon, I will personally bring criminal charges against each and every one of you!

The Directors stare at Bobby-

BUHL

Tell us about your offer, Bob.

BOBBY

Thank you, Henry.

Bobby passes out proposals to the Directors and presents M.O.S. his terms to purchase IOS during his voice over:

BOBBY (V.O.)

They admired my speedy mind and ability to sort through complex financial problems. I was forceful and persuasive. I was very slick. My offer was accepted by the Board and I was elected Chairman of IOS.

Several Directors smile and nod to Bobby while he speaks-

BOBBY (V.O.)

To those who distrusted me, opinion ranged from cunning financial adventurer, to out-and-out thief, to a figure of real evil. Like a vampire leaning-in to suck IOS's blood.

Bobby wipes his sleeve across his mouth and continues M.O.S. Several Directors stare at Bobby with utter contempt-

BOBBY (V.O.)

Tommy warned me that these people would fight me until there was no mathematical chance of their winning the final vote of the stockholders. I didn't believe him.

INT. BOEING 707 PLANE OFFICE (FLYING) - DAY

BOBBY

(on phone)

We need the IOS voting shares held at Overseas Development Bank in Geneva before Cornfeld can get his hands on them to stop my election. Our Swiss attorneys say they can be legally sold to us and voted for me at the IOS shareholders meeting.

EXT. OVERSEAS DEVELOPMENT BANK (ODB) - DAY

Building sign indicates: "OVERSEAS DEVELOPMENT BANK - GENEVA"

SUPER: NOVEMBER 30, 1971

INT. ODB VAULT ROOM - DAY

Bobby and TWO BANK MANAGERS face the locked vault-

BANK MANAGER #1

(French accent)

It is not possible. The vault is locked. And the voting share certificates are in a lock-box, and the key is in another cabinet which cannot be opened since the man with the key is gone for the weekend.

BOBBY

That's a fucking typical French response and completely unacceptable. Do we have access to explosives?

BANK MANAGER #2

Mr. Vesco, this may not be legal.

BOBBY

Of course it's legal. If it wasn't legal I wouldn't be here. Get the goddamn securities out. Now!

INT. OFFICE - DAY

Bernie Cornfeld sits behind a highly polished antique desk speaking on his phone:

BERNIE

Geneva Federal Police? ...I'm reporting a bank robbery. ...the Overseas Development Bank, Boulevard du Théâtre 10. ...yes, in progress as we speak! The thief is an American. A dangerous and crazy man named Robert Vesco.

EXT. SAINT-ANTOINE PRISON - DAY

SUPER: GENEVA

High on the hill, the 150-year-old prison is a block square and visible from everywhere in the ancient part of Geneva.

INT. SAINT-ANTOINE PRISON - JUDGE'S CHAMBERS - DAY

JUDGE, 60s, sits behind his desk looking down at a thick case file; Bobby stands in front of him-

JUDGE

Monsieur Vesco, I am ordering you held for bail on the charge of disloyal conduct.

BOBBY

Disloyal conduct? What exactly is disloyal conduct? My attorneys said that taking those shares from the bank is perfectly legal. I have it in writing! Did you look at-

JUDGE

-Take the prisoner.

Beefy BAILIFF takes Bobby roughly by the arm, leads him out of the Judge's chambers:

BOBBY

(getting shoved out the door)

Prisoner? This is a huge mistake, on your part! I didn't do anything illegal!

Judge smirks as he watches Bobby pushed out the door.

INT. PRISON CELL - NIGHT

The heavy wooden DOOR SLAMS shut; the SOUND of a metal BAR SCRAPING across the door and into the stone wall LOCKS it, darkened cell, very small, interior stone walls dank, streaked with claw marks, limestone floor gouged, stained with decades of urine, sweat, feces, blood, a small barred window in the wooden cell door, pale light floats through the window onto Bobby hunkered down in a crouch in the corner facing the door, INMATES can be heard CHATTERING:

PRISONER #1 (O.S.)

Là une célébrité avec nous cette nuit. Bon soir, Monsieur Vesco!

Bobby looks up at cell door window-

PRISONER #2 (O.S.)
He steals from our grandmothers!
Millions! He is evil!

PRISONER #1 (O.S.)
Grand-mères? Tonight Mister Vesco, we slit you troat. We come soon.

Bobby rises, takes a cautious step toward cell door-

PRISONER #2 (O.S.)
Later, le garde, will open the door.
No sleep Monsieur Vesco. You dead!

Bobby steps to cell door, speaks through small window:

BOBBY (calmly, clearly)
When the guard opens the door, mes-sieurs, I will rip your bellies open with my fingers; from your assholes, to your eyelids. I shit on your fucking grandmothers. Come on in boys; I am waiting for you fuckers with my razor sharp nails.

CHATTERING stops, Bobby listens to silence, goes to corner of the cell, sits on the floor, trembling, gripped with fear, he takes out a Kool cigarette with shaky hands, lights it, inhales deeply, exhales a cloud of smoke, stares at the door.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. U.S. MISSION TO SWITZERLAND AND LIECHTENSTEIN - NIGHT

SUPER: BERN, SWITZERLAND

An American flag hangs above the entrance to the U.S. Ambassador's villa: "BLUMENRAIN" that sits on grounds framed by the mountain peaks of the Alps, Eiger, Mönch and Jungfrau.

INT. OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY CHIEF OF THE U.S. MISSION - NIGHT

Deputy Chief, RICHARD VINE, 40s, in silk pajamas and a robe speaks with CIA AGENT, 30s:

VINE

This is ludicrous. Why is the CIA getting involved? He's just a low-level charlatan, a swindler.

CIA AGENT

There's unusual interest at the top in Vesco's case, by U.S. Attorney General Mitchell. He wants him released, Mr. Vine, today.

VINE

I'll make a few calls. No guarantee.
(picks up phone)
We don't own everyone.

CIA AGENT

We do. Good night, Mr. Vine.

EXT. WALDORF-ASTORIA HOTEL - DAY

SUPER: NEW YORK CITY

Bobby exits a cab in front of the hotel and enters.

INT. WALDORF-ASTORIA - PEACOCK ALLEY RESTAURANT - DAY

Bobby and Tommy Richardson eat lunch-

BOBBY

I tried to play fair with them. And look what it's gotten me. You warned me about those assholes and I never took you seriously. I'll tell you one thing, Tommy: one night in Saint-Antoine's Prison is enough. I'm never going to jail, ever. And now I'm going to take every dime from them that I can lay my hands on.

EXT. ICC HEADQUARTERS - NIGHT

Building's sign indicates: "INTERNATIONAL CONTROLS CORPORATION
-- FAIRFIELD, NEW JERSEY"

Limousine pulls up fast to ICC building, stops quickly; hurriedly, Bobby, attorney RAY MERRITT, 30s, and Tommy exit car and follow Bobby to front door; they all enter-

INT. ICC LOBBY - NIGHT

BOBBY

We're going to shut down all of the IOS funds.

(walks quickly down hall to office)

(follows)

IOS shareholders will need time to redeem their shares, Bobby. Morally and legally, they're entitled to have that chance!

Bobby looks over his shoulder at Merritt, keeps walking-

TOMMY

Morally? Are you kidding? They're fucking criminals.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. BOBBY'S OFFICE - DAY

Pirate ship "FORTUNE" sits behind Bobby's desk; Bobby, his financial advisor, BUD MEISSNER, 60s, and Tommy are talking:

MEISSNER

IOS salesmen took dirty money investments from people in cash, and deposited it into IOS funds under false names so their customers could avoid paying taxes.

BOBBY

Money made illegally to begin with.

TOMMY

If a customer wanted to redeem his shares, he'd call his local salesman for the payment. You get rid of all the salesmen, you cut all the links to share redemption payments.

BOBBY

None of these crooks will step into the light to reclaim their dirty money. So, in effect, it becomes our pot of gold.

TOMMY

The money records are kept in numbered Swiss accounts.

BOBBY

And?

MEISSNER

I did a computer run on all the Swiss accounts this week from the IOS data center in Nyon.

BOBBY

How much?

MEISSNER

Over six-hundred-million, in U.S. dollars.

BOBBY

That's a start.

EXT. NEW JERSEY CITY STREET - DAY

Bundled in overcoats, hats, and gloves, Bobby, smoking a Kool cigarette walks with his new attorney, ARTHUR GORMAN, 30s-

BOBBY

I hate this fucking weather. What do you think, Arthur?

GORMAN

(reads one-page document)

You're forming a single closed-end corporation, the ABC Company, to which you will invest in it the substantial dollar assets from the IOS funds. Then you want ABC Company to issue one-hundred-million dollars in bonds to be purchased by the IOS entities, and it will offer to buy IOS shares with the new ABC stock?

BOBBY

In a nutshell, Arthur, yeah. I'm going to set it up offshore. We're going to do a lot of these deals, through shell companies.

GORMAN

Bob, this could be construed as a scheme to frustrate the redemption rights of IOS shareholders.

BOBBY

It's a gray area, Arthur, but it's not illegal.

GORMAN

What are you going to tell the shareholders?

BOBBY

Nothing. It's not illegal.

EXT. U.S. SECURITIES & EXCHANGE COMMISSION BUILDING - NIGHT

SUPER: WASHINGTON, D.C.

INT. S.E.C. CHAIRMAN'S OFFICE - NIGHT

S.E.C. Chairman, William Casey, stands near a flow-chart on a white board listing bank names and cities; Myron Muehler, 41, (same as before) enters:

CASEY

He's tapped into the network.

MUEHLER

Close him down, Bill. He could expose the Complex.

CASEY

We could use someone like him.

MUEHLER

He's not like us. He's a common crook! We need to send him a message, so he realizes that we know what he's doing.

CASEY

Get Mr. Vesco on a leash, Myron.

EXT. U.S. SECURITIES & EXCHANGE COMMISSION BUILDING - DAY

Bobby's limousine parked in front, his BODYGUARD/CHAUFFEUR, 30s, leans against it smoking-

INT. S.E.C. CONFERENCE ROOM - ENFORCEMENT DIVISION - DAY

Cigarette smoke hangs in the air, case files and documents overflow boxes on the floor, conference table covered with stacks of documents and files-

Muehler sits in the middle on one side of the table with his S.E.C. STAFF ATTORNEYS seated to each side-

Bobby sits directly across from Muehler with his ATTORNEYS seated to each side-

Female STENOGRAPHER, 20s, sits at head of the table typing on her steno machine, Bobby's deposition in progress-

MUEHLER

I'll remind you that you are still under oath, Mr. Vesco.

BOBBY

You are saying it is a fact! My answer to the question would be the same as whatever it was at the time you asked the identical question the last time.

MUEHLER

What is your recollection at this time?

BOBBY

I have no recollection at variance with what I said the last time.

MUEHLER

I am asking you what your recollection is.

BOBBY

Myron, you asked over a year ago. I do not sit up all night trying to memorize facts for you.

MUEHLER

We have facts now that we did not have at that time.

BOBBY

I don't think you presented any facts. You say you have facts. You have not shown me any facts! You've questioned me under oath on eight separate occasions. You've subpoenaed hundreds of boxes of documents. It's like a goddam Jersey landfill in here! Myron, you're the best of the worst here, but you don't have squat!

Stenographer stifles a smile-

Muehler picks up tall stack of documents, places it in front of him, picks up the top page-

MUEHLER

Let's start again, Mr. Vesco, from the top.

BOBBY

(stands, leans across table at Muehler)
I'm dying in here of old age!

MUEHLER

(stands, leans across table at Bobby)
Mr. Vesco, it is more probable that you will die in a federal prison!

BOBBY

(sits; calmly)
Maybe so, Myron, maybe so, but at this rate you'll never get me there.
(lights a cigarette)
You cannot close the deal.

EXT. ICC PARKING LOT - MORNING

SUPER: NOVEMBER 1972

Lot filled with news vans from network, local news organizations: TV REPORTERS, PRESS, PHOTOGRAPHERS crowd in front of the ICC building.

NEWSWOMAN, 30s, gives an on-camera report:

NEWSWOMAN

(holds thick document)

The S.E.C. just dumped a massive bombshell, fifty-page lawsuit on Robert Lee Vesco today that goes way beyond charges of fraud and deceit. Mr. Vesco has been charged with draining IOS and diverting two-hundred and twenty-four-million dollars from its offshore funds for his personal purposes and interest.

INT. KITCHEN - MORNING

Danny, 19, enters kitchen as Pat, 37, stares in shock at the TV set on the counter, the newscast (same as above) is on:

NEWSWOMAN (CONT'D)

The S.E.C. apparently does not know where Mr. Vesco hid the hundreds-of-millions of dollars. This is the biggest lawsuit filed by the S.E.C. in its thirty-five-year history.

DANNY

Did Dad do something wrong?

INT. LIMOUSINE (MOVING) - NIGHT

Arthur Gorman and Bobby are seated in back.

BOBBY

I can't tell you the details. I'm not in a position to comment.

GORMAN

Of course you are, Bob! Talk to me.

BOBBY

I've been advised not to discuss it.

GORMAN

I'm your fucking attorney, Bob! Put the goddamn money back!

BOBBY

I can't.

(at Arthur)

And I wouldn't. Even if I could.

EXT. FEDERAL COURT HOUSE - DAY

SUPER: FOLEY SQUARE, NEW YORK CITY

PEOPLE hurriedly enter, exit doors of the building.

INT. COURTROOM - DAY

Courtroom over-crowded with SPECTATORS as Bobby's attorney, Arthur Gorman speaks:

GORMAN

Mr. Vesco never received a kickback and has never pocketed a single penny from IOS.

Muehler sits at S.E.C.'s Prosecution table with ATTORNEY, 30s-

GORMAN (CONT'D)

(stands)

This action represents a veiled attempt by the Securities & Exchange Commission to obtain judicial extension of its jurisdiction to transactions which the U.S. Congress has not extended to it!

TWO ATTORNEYS sit at Gorman's Defense table listening and writing (Bobby not present)-

GORMAN (CONT'D)

At most, Mr. Vesco and his executive team might be guilty of poor judgment, that they made imprudent, imprudent investments. But who, may I ask, in this complicated world of ours can conduct business without a few little mistakes?

Federal JUDGE CHARLES STEWART, 50s, sits on the bench-

JUDGE STEWART

What about his clandestine two hundred thousand-dollar cash contribution to the Nixon re-election campaign? Is this too, a little mistake, Mr. Gorman?
I would be very curious about whether a quid pro quo was expected by Mr. Vesco?

GORMAN

A quid pro quo? Of course not.

DR. JOHN'S SONG "RIGHT PLACE WRONG TIME" PLAYS OVER:

EXT. BOEING 707 (FLYING) - NIGHT

Inscribed on plane's nose cone: "SILVER PHYLLIS"--moving from the nose cone to Bobby's office window on: naked Tommy having sex with HOOKER #1, 20s, on the office couch, Bobby having sex with HOOKER #2, 20s, on his desk--moving to rear plane windows on: multi-colored strobe lights flash maniacally on an orgy of naked PARTY PEOPLE, 20s/30s, dancing and having sex in the plane's smoky discotheque.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. COURTROOM - DAY

Gorman and attorney JUSTIN FELDMAN, 30s, sit at Defense table-

FELDMAN

(scans courtroom)

Is he going to be here or not?

He needs to testify this morning!

GORMAN

(writing notes)

He will not accept the terms of the S.E.C.'s settlement offer.

FELDMAN

If Bob doesn't testify he's going to lose this case by default, Arthur.

Gorman writes-

FELDMAN (CONT'D)

Well, he'd better be ready for jail.

Muehler sits at the S.E.C. Prosecution table-

BAILIFF

All rise for the Honorable Justice Charles E. Stewart.

MUEHLER

(stands; scans courtroom)

He's not going to show. It's over!

Muehler smiles smugly for a few moments, his smile fades, he glances anxiously around the courtroom, his demeanor transforms into anger, like he's just been conned.

EXT. U.S. JUSTICE DEPARTMENT BUILDING - DAY

Justice Department SPOKESWOMAN, 30s, stands on building's front steps surrounded by news microphones, PRESS and TV PEOPLE crowd around Spokeswoman as she speaks:

SPOKESWOMAN

An arrest warrant for Robert Lee Vesco was issued today by a Federal Magistrate due to repeated non-appearance in federal court to answer the criminal charges pending against him. The United States considers Mr. Vesco a fugitive, and will do everything in its power to apprehend him and bring him to justice.

EXT. JUAN SANTAMARÍA INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT - DAWN

SUPER: SAN JOSÉ, COSTA RICA

Sun's golden rays laser through the misty valley from behind the Irazú Volcano percolating in the east-

Bobby's Boeing 707 lands, taxis, stops near private hangar; TWO GROUND CREWMEN push rolling stairs to plane door; door opens: Bobby, 37, Pat, 37, Danny, 20, Tony, 17, Dawn, 12, Bobby Jr., 9, and Don-Don, 25 descend the stairs.

EXT. ROAD - DAY

Range Rover with armed SECURITY MEN inside drive through dust cloud, ahead of the Range Rover is another Range Rover driving through the dust with armed SECURITY MEN inside, ahead of the Range Rover a limousine contains the Vesco Family--the multi-vehicle motorcade led a single plain sedan-

Diminutive JOSÉ "DON PEPE" FIGUERES, 60s, President of Costa Rica, sits in the front passenger seat of the plain sedan.

EXT. DOWNTOWN SAN JOSÉ STREET - DAY

Motorcade (same as before) drives through the city, TICOS (Costa Ricans) gape at the motorcade.

INT. LIMOUSINE (MOVING) - DAY

Vesco family: Bobby, Pat, Danny, Tony, Dawn, Bobby Jr., and Don-Don, sit in the back and stare out the windows at the Ticos lining the street-

PAT

How long will we live here?

BOBBY

Presidente Don Pepe says we can stay forever.

DANNY

Forever? Ugh, this is going to suck.

TONY

I can't speak Spanish!

BOBBY

Don't worry, Tony, we'll have everything we could want.

DAWN

Horses too?

BOBBY

Of course. Everything.

DANNY

Everything will never be enough!

TONY

Can we have a pool, Dad?

BOBBY

Yes. We're going to have fun here.

DON-DON

(smiling broadly)

We'll be diggin on it, Daddio!

EXT. COSTA RICAN VILLA - MORNING

SUPER: APRIL 1974

The sun rises over the misty valley, ten-foot walls enclose the sprawling hillside estate--

--Closed-circuit security cameras mounted on the walls track passing PEOPLE and vehicles, armed GUARDS with walkie-talkies stationed at the gate.

EXT. VILLA POOL - MORNING

Armed GUARD stands near pool, a portable short-wave radio on the patio table broadcasts NEWS, Bobby sits at table talking on phone:

BOBBY

Fucking right, Tommy; new boss, same as the old boss. Our new operating base will be here in the Caribbean. ...the S.E.C. is breaking my balls. I won't stand for their motherfucking bullshit. ...hold on-(turns up radio volume)

RADIO NEWSCASTER (V.O.)

In New York yesterday, a Federal jury acquitted President Nixon's former Attorney General John Mitchell and Maurice Stans. The Government alleged that the defendants attempted to impede a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Robert L. Vesco, the fugitive financier, in return for a secret two hundred-thousand dollar cash contribution that Mr. Vesco made to Mr. Nixon's re-election campaign. The jurors seemed to feel that Mr. Vesco was the missing link in the case... In other news, Bernard Cornfeld, a former associate of Mr. Vesco's, has been arrested for fraud and is being held without bail in Saint-Antoine prison in Geneva, Switzerland.

BOBBY

Yes! Payback's a bitch, Bernie!
(turns radio volume down; back on phone)

Did you hear that Tommy? Fire up the Learjet, I have meetings in Nassau.

(hangs up)

INT. S.E.C. OFFICE - DIRECTOR OF ENFORCEMENT - DAY

Muehler on his feet, livid, stares at newscast on his TV set, he turns up the volume:

NEWSMAN

The thrust of the Government case was an abuse of power, involving a call from Mr. Mitchell at Nixon campaign headquarters to Mr. Dean at the White House, who in turn called William J. Casey, then chairman of the S.E.C. and now Director of the CIA, asking Mr. Casey the status of the S.E.C.--Vesco case. These were allegedly attempts to impede the S.E.C. investigation. It showed the White House was involved in helping Mr. Vesco, the fugitive financier-

Muehler abruptly kicks TV set over, it CRASHES to floor, starts smoking-

MUEHLER

Goddam Nixon motherfuckers!

SECRETARY sticks her head inside Muehler's office-

SECRETARY

Everything okay, Mr. Muehler?

MUEHLER

Yeah, the TV just fell.

EXT. BAHAMAS COMMONWEALTH BANK - DAY

SUPER: NASSAU

Mercedes drives to front of bank, parks; Bobby's armed BODYGUARD exits, opens rear door, Bobby exits, glances around, enters bank.

INT. BAHAMAS COMMONWEALTH BANK - DAY

Bobby enters and immediately met by Allan Butler (same as before)-

ALLAN

Hey Bobby, there's a couple men here from the Police Commissioner's office. They're waiting in your office.

BOBBY

Did we pay them this month?

Bobby walks to his office at rear of the bank-

ALLAN

Prime Minister Pindling is getting the squeeze.

INT. OFFICE - DAY

Door opens, Bobby enters, TWO POLICEMEN stand-

POLICEMAN #1

Hello Mr. Vesco. I am very sorry, Sir but we have an arrest warrant.
(shows the warrant)

Bobby ignores him, walks behind his desk, sits-

POLICEMAN #2

It's the Americans, sir. They want to extradite you.

BOBBY

Could you wait outside while I make a phone call?

POLICEMAN #1

Yes, Mr. Vesco, we'll wait in the lobby. Thank you.

Policemen exit, close door-

BOBBY

(presses phone buttons)
It's Vesco. I thought we had a deal.
...no, it did not include my arrest!
...this is going to cost you.

EXT. ROYAL BAHAMAS POLICE DEPARTMENT - NIGHT

Bobby and his BODYGUARD exit the station-

BOBBY

Get the car.

Bodyguard trots away, Bobby pulls out a pack of KOOL's, taps one out, is about to light it when his Mercedes pulls up quickly, SQUEALS to a stop next to him, he opens the rear door and is pulled roughly by his arms into the car, the cigarette falls to the street, car door SLAMS shut as it speeds away-

INT. MERCEDES (MOVING) - NIGHT

Bobby uneasy, glances at large thuggish man, SAL, 30s, crowding him in the back seat; Sal and DRIVER, 30s, both wear dark clothes and black leather gloves-

BOBBY

Seventy-five degrees outside and you're wearing gloves? That must be uncomfortable.

Sal smiles-

BOBBY (CONT'D)

Can I smoke?

SAL

Sure. We all gotta die some time.

BOBBY

God only kills us when we get boring.

(lights cigarette)

Where are we going?

SAL

To see the man that will tell you, if you have become boring.

EXT. MANSION - NIGHT

Mercedes pulls up to iron gate entrance of sprawling, well-lit estate; armed GUARD at gate looks in at Driver and Sal in back and opens gate, car drives the long driveway toward seaside mansion-

INT. MANSION TERRACE - NIGHT

SURF is heard, Bobby stands near terrace railing facing the interior of the house; Sal sits in a chair at the table smoking, watching Bobby closely-

Sal stands as SANTO TRAFFICANTE, 60, walks from the house out to the terrace. (Trafficante was among the most powerful Mafia bosses in the United States, controlling all organized criminal operations in Florida and Cuba.) Bobby straightens-

TRAFFICANTE

(low voice)

Mr. Vesco, please, sit down.

(pulls out a chair)

Bobby nods to Trafficante, sits down, Trafficante sits next to him, Sal stands behind Bobby, Bobby glances back at Sal-

TRAFFICANTE

How are you tonight?

BOBBY

I'm good, Mr. Trafficante. So far.

TRAFFICANTE

That's good, real good. You look good. Young, healthy, sharp. A real bright kid. Maybe a future.

(beat)

Kid, you have six-hundred million dollars that belongs to me.

BOBBY

Yes, I do, Mr. Trafficante.

TRAFFICANTE

It's mine and Meyer Lansky's money.

(beat)

Meyer set up the IOS network to launder our casino and narcotics profits through offshore mutual funds... You stole it from Cornfeld.

BOBBY

Mr. Trafficante, I can give it-

TRAFFICANTE

(raises finger for silence)

-Of course you will. If we thought we couldn't work with you, to gain an advantage over our competitors, you wouldn't be here.

(beat)

You wouldn't be anywhere.

BOBBY

Right... Competitors?

TRAFFICANTE

We compete against, and at times partner with, the biggest and most profitable narcotics dealing and gunrunning operation in the world.

BOBBY

(beat)

The CIA.

TRAFFICANTE

Bene. I need two things: get into a new bank called Bank of Credit and Commerce International, BCCI, and learn what they're funding for the CIA. And talk to a banker, Guillermo Cartaya. He has a hundred-million coming in from Cuba for the Colombia operation.

BOBBY

Castro, and Colombia?

TRAFFICANTE

The CIA is shifting from Asian poppies to Colombian coca; from smack to crack. We are too. It's smart. America's going to wake the fuck up.

BOBBY

Cocaine.

TRAFFICANTE

CIA is assembling a cartel, in Medellín.

BOBBY

And I do the laundry.

HOUSE MAN enters, sets bottle of Grappa and two glasses on the table, Trafficante pours each of them a drink-

TRAFFICANTE

Precisely. It's going to be molto grande, Bobby. Fucking billions.

Trafficante hands a glass to Bobby-

TRAFFICANTE
We'll be watching. Closely.

BOBBY
Thank you for thinking of me.

TRAFFICANTE
(clinks Bobby's glass)
Salute.
(drinks)

BOBBY
Salute.

RINGO STARR'S "BACK OFF BOOGALOO" PLAYS OVER:

INT. BOEING 707 DISCOTHEQUE (FLYING) - NIGHT

Song is LOUD, wild party, smoky, lights strobing, topless PARTY GIRLS, 20s, wear G-strings and heels dance and grind against BUSINESSMEN who drink, snort coke off their bodies, Don-Don dances alone smoking a joint.

INT. BOEING 707 OFFICE (FLYING) - NIGHT

MUSIC MUTED, Bobby talks with CLARK CLIFFORD, 40s, former Counsel to the President and Secretary of Defense with connections into BCCI Bank:

BOBBY
Clark, I want to hook into BCCI.
Specifically, a Paki, named Agha
Abedi, who funds black ops for CIA.

CLIFFORD
Sure, Bob. I know Abedi.

BOBBY
I have nine-figures coming through.

(impressed)
I'll set it up.

BOBBY

Talk to Ted Kennedy and Ed Muskie.
Tell them to get those S.E.C. witch-hunters off my back.

(presses a button on his desk)

CLIFFORD

I'll see what I can do.

BOBBY

For christ sake, Clark, you were Secretary of Defense. Get it done.

Topless PARTY GIRL, 20s, enters the office-

BOBBY

Show Mr. Clifford the disco.

Party Girl giggles, flirts with Clifford, pulls him by the arm out of Bobby's office-

Tommy is revealed sitting on the couch near Bobby's desk-

BOBBY

Set up a new Swiss entity called:
Compagnie de Services Fiduciares-- CSF-

(passes Tommy piece of paper)

-to handle all of the financial and hard goods services for our new customers.

TOMMY

(jotting notes)
We're diversifying.

BOBBY

Yes we are Tommy. Into the big show.
Where the big money is.

TOMMY

And our new customers will be?

BOBBY

Those that make smoke and lightning.
And the heavy metal thunder.

TOMMY

Not following.

BOBBY

Global arms dealers. Sovereign states. American agencies, and banana republics.

(beat)

The Lords of War.

(beat)

I'm going to make it happen, Tommy. We're going to fire all of our guns at once, and then explode into space... Got it?

TOMMY

Got it... Born to be wild.

BOBBY

We are not fucking regular people.

VOLUME of "BACK OFF BOOGALOO" RISES, PLAYS OVER:

EXT. BOEING 707 (FLYING) - NIGHT

Bobby, visible through the office window talks on the phone-

Visible through rear windows of the plane: flashing strobe lights on PARTY PEOPLE in full-on bacchanalia in the disco.

INT. S.E.C. OFFICE - DIRECTOR OF ENFORCEMENT - DAY

Muehler stands speaking to S.E.C. Enforcement AGENTS:

MUEHLER

He's in open court in the Bahamas. If he loses the case, we'll be there to take him back to U.S. soil. Call the U.S. Marshal's office in Southeast Florida, get them moving. We're going down to Nassau, now!

EXT. PARLIAMENT SQUARE COURT HOUSE - DAY

SUPER: NEW PROVIDENCE, BAHAMAS

News organizations: TV, PRESS, PHOTOGRAPHY CREWS swarm the white two-story building. "Court Number 1" is chiseled into the building's stone façade.

INT. JUDGE'S CHAMBERS - DAY

JUDGE OSADEBAY, 50s, dons his robes prior to trial--KNOCK on his door, he walks to door, opens it, an American CIA OFFICER, 30s, in dark suit and tie stands in the doorway, shows badge-

CIA OFFICER

Hello Judge. May I come in, please?

JUDGE OSADEBAY

Yes, only for a moment. I need to be in court. What is this about?

INT. COURT ROOM - DAY

VOICE OVER SERIES OF SHOTS

- Gallery packed with PRESS and SPECTATORS-
- Bobby sits calmly at Defense table with Arthur Gorman-

BOBBY (V.O.)

If I lost the case, I would be shoved aboard a jet and taken to Miami where U.S. Marshals would be waiting to throw me in jail.

- Judge Osadebay presides from the bench-
- Bobby's Bahamian attorney, EUGENE DUPUCH, orates M.O.S. on his behalf-

BOBBY (V.O.)

My attorney easily outclassed the U.S. Attorneys at every turn in the case.

U.S. Justice Department ATTORNEYS look uneasy as they listen to DuPuch's speech:

EUGENE DUPUCH

(loud, with flourish)

In my more than a quarter of a century of practice, this is only the third time that the case of the prosecution has been so pitifully and woefully, abysmally without virtue, that I had the audacity to submit no case to answer!

(pauses; directly to the Prosecution Attorneys)

Did you, do this, on purpose?

- U.S. Attorneys stare at him-

BOBBY (V.O.)
 Judge Osadebay had no choice but to throw the case out.

- Judge Osadebay SLAMS his gavel down-

- Bobby smirks; Gorman and his Attorneys pat him on the back-

BOBBY (V.O.)
 They said about this aborted extradition attempt what they have said before. That the U.S. government didn't want me returned to testify in open court, because I knew too much about Nixon, and Reagan, and Bush, the CIA, Mena, Clinton, cocaine and arms smuggling, and, in the end, America herself.

EXT. PARLIAMENT SQUARE COURT HOUSE - DAY

Muehler and AGENTS arrive in an SUV, quickly exit, push their way through CROWD to front doors, LARGE BAHAMIAN POLICEMEN block them from going in-

MUEHLER
 (displays S.E.C. badge)
 I am a U.S. Agent! Let me enter!

POLICEMAN #1
 You have no jurisdiction here, Sir.
 Please back away from the entrance.

S.E.C. AGENTS and DEPUTY U.S. MARSHALS, behind Muehler, try to maintain their position as the larger BAHAMIAN POLICE, along with BODYGUARDS, shove them back away from the entrance-

Arthur Gorman and Bobby's ATTORNEYS and BODYGUARDS exit court house through front doors--Bobby, surrounded by Attorneys and Bodyguards, push their way through crowd toward street-

Bobby, moving along, spots Muehler nearby-

Muehler, blocked and unable to move, spots Bobby-

MUEHLER
 You are a criminal, Mr. Vesco!

BOBBY

(moving)

Good to see you, Myron! It's been too long!

MUEHLER

I'm not done with you!

BOBBY

(moving away)

I'm done with you, Myron! You are incompetent, and that's a fact!

(beat)

Back to Costa Rica, Boys!

Bobby and CREW get to the street, pile into two black SUVs, drive away fast-

Muehler stares at their trail of road dust-

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. U.S. MISSION TO COSTA RICA - NIGHT

SUPER: SAN JOSÉ, COSTA RICA

Walled Embassy mansion protected by TWO armed GUARDS positioned at gated entrance, Don Pepe's car parked near gate, his DRIVER waits.

INT. OFFICE OF THE U.S. AMBASSADOR - NIGHT

Don Pepe sits in the elegant study sipping brandy with U.S. Ambassador, VIRON VAKY, 40s-

VAKY

Don Pepe, we would like you to hold Mr. Vesco in preventative detention until we have executed his formal extradition.

DON PEPE

Señor Vaky, extradition is, complicated.

VAKY

I assure you, Don Pepe, that we will follow the laws of Costa Rica. And we will succeed in our mission.

DON PEPE
Señor Vaky, what is your mission?

VAKY
Mr. Vesco is a fugitive.

DON PEPE
And so much more.

EXT. COSTA RICAN VILLA - NIGHT

Two jeeps, headlights off speed up hill to Vesco's villa, SKID to a stop at villa gate, jeeps' doors open, FIVE armed AGENTS exit, approach Vesco's Guards, COMMANDER, 30s, questions Guards through gate:

COMMANDER
Dónde está, Señor Vesco?

GUARD #1
No se, Señor. No están aquí.

GUARD #2 steps forward.

GUARD #2
El aeropuerto, hace quince minutos.

Guard #1 glares at Guard #2-

COMMANDER
Let's go!

Agents enter jeeps, drive off; Guard #2 smirks at Guard #1, Guard #1 SMACKS butt of his machinegun across Guard #2's face, he hits the ground unconscious.

EXT. JUAN SANTAMARÍA INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT - NIGHT

PINK FLOYD'S "ECLIPSE" PLAYS OVER SERIES OF SHOTS:

- Boeing 707 cruises the taxiway toward the runway
- Agents' jeeps speed, SMASH through airport's chain-link fence onto grass, race toward Bobby's plane
- Plane makes quick turn in front of Air France jet, rolls onto main runway, plane points its nose down runway, stops, FIRES its four engines
- Agents tear across tarmac toward plane

- Plane rolls forward, accelerates rapidly down runway
- Agents speed down runway after plane--but they're too late, as the big jet lifts its nose and takes off into the night
- Agents' jeeps stop at plane's lift-off point
- Plane slowly eclipses the moon as the song ends

INT. COMMANDER'S JEEP - NIGHT

Commander & Agents in jeep, Commander speaks into walkie-talkie:

COMMANDER

Mission success. Kingbird in the wind, over.

(to himself)

Adiós, Señor Vesco.

INT. BOEING 707 DISCO - NIGHT

SWEET'S "BALLROOM BLITZ" PLAYS OVER:

Danny, Tony and Don-Don raucously play side-by-side pinball machines-

TONY

That was so cool!

DANNY

No shit. We're like spies, man!

DON-DON

I'm like, "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." --my uncle... Dick Nixon... Don't ya get it, man?! Jesus.

Tony and Danny laugh at Don-Don-

DISCO BAR

Bobby and Pat drink cocktails-

PAT

That was really scary, Bobby. Police chasing us all over. All this crazy back and forth between Nassau and Costa Rica, I'm exhausted. Will we always be running away?

BOBBY

They'll never catch me, Pat.

PAT

They're angry, Bobby, especially that Muehler man. And crazy people like that, well, they never quit. I'm scared.

(beat)

Where are we going now?

BOBBY

No reason to be scared, Pat. We're going back to the Nassau house, you and the kids; then I'm going on to Honduras.

PAT

(beat)

You never spend any time with us.

BOBBY

I know. I'm trying to do better.

INT. S.E.C. OFFICE - DIRECTOR OF ENFORCEMENT - DAY

Muehler on his feet talks on phone:

MUEHLER

(agitated)

I'm asking you very politely to connect me, with Ambassador Viron Vaky, in Costa Rica... thank you, I'll hold... Ambassador Vaky? It's Myron Muehler, with the S.E.C. in D.C. ...yes, nice to meet you, too. Sir, this may seem abrupt, but, where is Robert Vesco? ...you have him under surveillance? Good! I'll- ...wait, you did, but now you don't? ...he escaped?! How is that possible? ...Ambassador, we have shared objectives, I mean, we're on the same side, right? ...No Sir, I did not mean to impugn your reputation or leadership in any way. I'm sorry, but I just don't understand how you-hello? hello?!

(slams down phone)

EXT. WAREHOUSE - NIGHT

SUPER: SAN PEDRO SULA, HONDURAS

Veiled from public view, tan nondescript warehouse enclosed by ten-foot electrified fence topped with rolling razor wire, flood lights and security cameras.

INT. WAREHOUSE - DAY

Bobby, with BODYGUARDS, chats with Cuban, JOHN MOLINA, 40s, who manages the arms supply network for the Nicaraguan Contra Rebels; TWENTY COMMANDOS positioned near Molina with machine-guns; paramilitary COMMANDO #1, 20s, mans a jeep-mounted .50 caliber machinegun, aimed at Bobby and his Bodyguards-

MOLINA

Welcome back to the world famous Arms Super Market.

Molina gestures toward hundreds of meticulously ordered, stencil-labeled and stacked wooden crates-

MOLINA (CONT'D)

From our work with you and the CIA, there are now millions of dollars in guns and ammunition earmarked for the Contras.

BOBBY

(lights a Kool cigarette)
This is an amazing sight. It's hard to believe, it's all sitting here.
Just, fucking, sitting here.

MOLINA

Thank you. You and Mr. Gómez are true visionaries. Maybe drug money can buy la Contrarevolución!

BOBBY

Why are these fucking crates here?
They should be en route to Nicaragua. Where are the goddamn trucks?
This isn't Contrarevolución, this is fucking storage. Meanwhile the Contras are on fucking life-support!
Get this product moving, Molina.
Clear it out. I'm back in a week.

Bobby flicks cigarette at Molina's feet-

Bobby and Crew turn, walk toward exit, COMMANDO #2 raises his rifle, aims it at Bobby's back, Commando #1 has red laser dot from his .50 caliber machinegun lit on the back of Bobby's head; Bobby senses the odd silence, stops... his Bodyguards stop, they look at him, Bobby turns around slowly, his Bodyguards turn slowly, pull their slung MAC-10s from under their jackets, immediately aim them at Commando #1, Commando #2 and Molina, they're calm and ready to fire-

BOBBY (calmly, to Crew) Hold.

Red laser dot flickers on Bobby's forehead-

Molina's Commandos raise machineguns, aim at Bobby and Crew-

BOBBY
 (glares at Molina)
 Cut this macho Latin bullshit, and just do your fucking job, Molina.
 La Contrarevolución is waiting, and it's waiting on you.

Molina glares at Bobby, raises his hand, lowers it, Commandos slowly lower their weapons, Bobby's Bodyguards lower their weapons, they all turn and walk toward exit-

BOBBY
 Amateurs.

EXT. WAREHOUSE - DAY

Bobby and Crew enter limousine parked near warehouse, Bobby sits in rear seat behind DRIVER as limo IDLES-

Molina and his BODYGUARD exit warehouse, walk to four-wheel-drive vehicle parked across the street from Bobby's limo, Molina flips the finger at Bobby as they enter their vehicle-
 Bushy-haired ASSASSIN darts toward Molina in a low crouch, raises his pistol, aims it point-blank at Molina's head and fires rapidly: POP! POP! POP! Molina's blood and brains splatter the inside of the windshield as he drapes the steering wheel--horn SOUNDS, his Bodyguard exits vehicle, FIRES SHOTS at fleeing Assassin-

INT. BOBBY'S LIMO - DAY

BOBBY

Go! GO!

Driver puts car in gear, floors it, tires SQUEAL-

BOBBY

(on phone; calmly)
Gómez? Vesco... Get your men to the Super Market now. Molina is out.

EXT. XANADU BEACH RESORT & MARINA - DAY

SUPER: FREEPORT, BAHAMAS

Tommy sits with money launderer, drug dealer and jet pilot,
FRANK PEROFF, mid-30s, having drinks at marina café-

PEROFF

Where's Vesco? He's coming, right?

TOMMY

Relax, he's in the john taking a leak.

(beat)

He's got a bad urinary tract thing.
Some kind of bug; it won't go away.

Bobby joins them, sits-

BOBBY

I hear you're a supersonic ghost.

PEROFF

I can fly in and out of the States and Canada, undetected.

BOBBY

What's on your mind, Mr. Peroff?

PEROFF

Connie Bouchard in Montréal wants me to fly my jet to Marseille and pick up a hundred keys of skag.

BOBBY

Bouchard, and Pepe Cotroni?

PEROFF

Yeah, they're partners. He said you agreed to put up the three-hundred for the deal.

BOBBY

Who do you know at Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs?

PEROFF

(subtly startled)

What?

TOMMY

You know, the BNDD.

PEROFF

Nobody. Why would you ask?

BOBBY

Why? Why not, Frank?

PEROFF

I don't know anybody there.

TOMMY

Really? I know a few guys.

PEROFF

You do?

TOMMY

Had them sweep Bobby's office and house. For bugs.

BOBBY

Pest control. You never know who's listening, right Frank?

PEROFF

I guarantee you, I am not a pest.

(beat)

Are we good?

Bobby nods-

PEROFF (CONT'D)

Good. I'll get back to Bouchard.

(gets up, exits)

Bobby stares at Peroff as he exits-

BOBBY

Mr. Peroff smells funny.

TOMMY

He's clean.

BOBBY

He better be, Tommy.

EXT. DIRKSEN SENATE OFFICE BUILDING - DAY

INSERT: U.S. SENATE, PERMANENT SUBCOMMITTEE ON INVESTIGATIONS

SUPER: WASHINGTON, D.C.

INT. SENATE INVESTIGATION CHAMBER - DAY

Subcommittee Chairman SENATOR HENRY JACKSON (D-WA), 62, presides over hearing, SENATOR CHARLES PERCY (R-IL), 55, is present along with other committee SENATORS.

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

The subcommittee will examine allegations that highly sophisticated automatic and semiautomatic rifles and shotguns were purchased by Mr. Thomas P. --Tommy-- Richardson on behalf of Robert Vesco and smuggled to Mr. Vesco by Mr. Richardson on his private jet.

SENATOR PERCY

Extensive staff investigations point to a pervasive pattern of contact between DEA agents and Mr. Vesco's business associate, Mr. Thomas P. Richardson.

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

Thank you, Senator Percy. Our first witness this morning is Mr. Thomas P. Richardson.

(calling)

Mr. Richardson? Mr. Thomas P. Richardson? Is his attorney here? The Chair will note for the record that we have asked twice for Mr. Richardson. He has not responded.

SENATOR PERCY

Mr. Chairman, has a subpoena been issued?

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

Yes, twice.

EXT. PHONE BOOTH - DAY

Tommy in the booth talks on phone:

TOMMY

If I don't testify, they're going to jail me for contempt of Congress! ...I can't run! ...c'mon Bobby, what am I going to do? ...this is fucked up. ...yeah, Bobby, sure. I'll keep you out of it.

(hangs up)

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. SENATE INVESTIGATION CHAMBER - DAY

Chairman Jackson and subcommittee Senators seated; Tommy seated at witness table testifying-

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

Mr. Richardson, it is our understanding that many millions of dollars in mutual fund assets from Investors Overseas Services, IOS, were sold by or through your previous brokerage firm, T.P. Richardson & Co. What was your relationship with Robert Vesco at the time these transactions took place?

TOMMY

(sullen)

I was just a friend.

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

You were handling his securities?

TOMMY

I don't believe they were his securities. I believe he had divested himself from IOS.

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

What other services has Mr. Vesco requested that you perform for him or cause others to perform for him?

TOMMY

None, Sir.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. BEACHFRONT HOUSE - DAY

SUPER: NASSAU, BAHAMAS

Large white house secluded, adjacent to beach, THREE armed Bahamian GUARDS stand by chained driveway entrance, Mercedes drives up, stops, Guard #1 leans toward car, talks to DRIVER M.O.S., waves his hand, other two Guards unlock heavy chain blocking driveway, Mercedes drives through toward house, near house a new red Ferrari Mondial parked next to a Mercedes-

Abruptly--VERY LOUD CONTINUOUS RAPID BURSTS of MACHINEGUN FIRE ECHOES across the placid property, Mercedes SQUEALS to a stop on driveway, Driver and PASSENGER dive downward within car.

EXT. BEACHFRONT HOUSE REAR LAWN - DAY

Bobby, crouched and armed with Uzi machinegun, RIDDLES bushes with RAPID FIRE BURSTS-

CARLOS LEHDER, 30, head of transport for Colombia's Medellín Cartel crouches near Bobby with Uzi FIRING BURSTS of bullets up into the palm trees-

Coconuts, like green heads, EXPLODE into wet, green milky fragments-

Bobby and Lehder alternate shooting and speaking:

BOBBY

It's goddamn bat country!
(firing)

LEHDER

Buy the ticket, take the ride!
(firing)

BOBBY

The only crime is getting caught!
(firing)

LEHDER

Fear and loathing, in Las Nassaus.

Bobby and Lehder sweating, gun mags empty, raise smoking machineguns toward each other in a salute-

Mutilated coconuts lie at their feet bleeding out their milk-

Bobby and Lehder chuckle; their tense BODYGUARDS, standing behind them, relax a bit, they crack smiles.

EXT. BEACHFRONT HOUSE POOL PATIO - DAY

In b.g., Dawn, Bobby Jr., and Pat play with a beach ball in surf; three Guards with machineguns scan the beach and sea-

Bobby and Lehder sit by pool at a table talking, Lehder's armed Bodyguard stands behind him-

BOBBY

Norman's Cay is close to Miami.
You'll have your own private clearing and refueling hub to transship the coke into the States. You can employ a private air force to service the market. Think big, Carlos.

LEHDER

And the government, Pindling?

BOBBY

On my payroll. He gets his cut and his wife, Lady Marguerite, is happy.

LEHDER

Our labs can produce five-tons a month, three-hundred million retail. Cash management on that scale is our primary concern. That's a massive constant flow of dirty money.

BOBBY

Carlos, that's why you're here.
(rises, lights cigarette)
I'll run most of it through fictitious shell companies.

LEHDER

What else ?

BOBBY

You're getting too granular. Let's-

LEHDER

-What else, Bob?

BOBBY

Ok, I'll make this exception... I have unlimited access to aircraft, shipping facilities, and other equipment that operate in the seaports & airports throughout the Caribbean. I have a deep & broad network of associates that trade U.S. currency generated from drug traffickers, like you, for Colombian pesos, commercial goods, real estate and gold bars on the Black Market Peso Exchange. I also execute fictitious sales of emeralds via my contacts in New York city's diamond district; plus the illegal transportation of U.S. currency aboard commercial and military aircraft maintained in Panama and other Caribbean locales. Through my contacts at Las Vegas casinos, my vast network of bank accounts in the Bahamas and Switzerland, by exchanging clean U.S. currency held in Panama banks for dirty U.S. currency stockpiled in Colombian warehouses... Get the picture?

LEHDER

You ever fucked up?

BOBBY

Of course not. I'm the bitchin'est dude at the beach; the guy creamed in Sea & Ski, hangin' ten, and getting shit done. Everyone is happy. We all get rich... Twenty-percent, Carlos, and the Cartel's cash will be as clean as the U.S. Treasury's.

LEHDER

You can hang ten points, Bob. I'll be in touch.

They shake hands, Lehder walks toward exit-

BOBBY

Carlos, you're going to be bigger than General Motors and IBM.

LEHDER

(turns back to Bobby)
We should start our own country?

BOBBY

I'm working on that. The perfect island is Barbuda. I'm going to set up "The Sovereign Order of Aragon." Let's talk!

Lehder smiles, walks away, Bodyguard follows him; Lehder nods to entering & passing Arthur Gorman, who carries a suitcase-

GORMAN

(hands Bobby suitcase)
Who was that?

BOBBY

Carlos Lehder, my new pool man.

GORMAN

(sits)
With a Rolex, armed bodyguard and new Mondial?

Bobby shrugs-

GORMAN (CONT'D)

I have news.

Bobby dials combination lock numbers on suitcase, opens it a crack, peeks inside; racks of banded cash revealed, Bobby SNAPS case shut, rolls the lock numbers-

BOBBY

And?

GORMAN

My contacts in D.C. say there is going to be testimony to Jackson's Senate subcommittee that you provided three-hundred-thousand dollars for a heroin smuggling operation.

BOBBY

They're goddamn liars.

GORMAN

Do you know Frank Peroff?

BOBBY

No. Why do they keep making this shit up?

GORMAN

He says he knows you.

BOBBY

Take care of it, Arthur.

Bobby rises, walks to seaside railing, watches Pat and the Kids playing with the beach ball in the surf; in b.g., Gorman exits; Bobby waves to Pat and Kids, they don't see him, the beach ball blows away from them, they chase it for a while but finally give up, and stop; sadly, they watch it leave their presence, they wave good-bye to it, it blows farther and farther away... Bobby, dejected, lowers his hand.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. SENATE INVESTIGATION CHAMBER - DAY

Chairman Jackson and subcommittee Senators are present; Frank Peroff seated at witness table testifies:

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

Mr. Peroff, you testified that while in the Bahamas you met Conrad Bouchard of Montréal?

PEROFF

Yes, Sir. I met Mr. Bouchard in Nassau.

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

Is it also true, Mr. Peroff, that for over two years you have been a confidential informant for several federal law enforcement agencies including: U. S. Customs Service, Secret Service, Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, and now the Drug Enforcement Administration-- the DEA?

PEROFF

Yes, that's true, Chairman Jackson.

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

It was in this role as a confidential informant for the DEA that you came upon information that led you to report to your DEA handlers that Robert Vesco was going to finance a three hundred thousand-dollar heroin transaction with the Canadian racketeer, Conrad Bouchard?

PEROFF

Yes, that is correct, Sir.

EXT. ILOPANGO AIR FORCE BASE - DAY

SUPER: SAN SALVADOR, EL SALVADOR

Small civilian planes park, land, take off; Hangar Four-

INT. HANGAR FOUR - DAY

Planes: Caravans, Pipers, Cessnas parked within hangar, CARGO MEN unload wooden crates from planes, planes are reloaded with large white plastic coolers designated "MEDICAL SUPPLIES" ARMED AGENTS patrol hangar, PAINTERS on ladders with stencil cut-outs and spray-paint re-number the planes' tail registration numbers-

Huge C-123 transport plane in camouflage paint revealed: "FAT LADY" painted on plane below cockpit window-

Pilot BARRY SEAL, 30s, walks from C-123 with two large metal suitcases to Cuban-American CIA agent FÉLIX GÓMEZ, 40s, standing at a table within the hangar, Seal hoists the heavy cases, one at a time, onto the table-

SEAL

Señor Gómez.

(opens first suitcase)

Oh no, what is this?

Suitcase packed with cash wrapped in plastic-

SEAL (CONT'D)

Five-hundred kilos up to Mena.

Three-mil here-

(nods to other suitcase)

Three-mil, there. You CIA guys are funding a nice little war down here.

Gómez closes suitcase, nods toward second one-

GÓMEZ

You're paid very well, Mr. Seal.

SEAL

(opens it, shows cash)
CIA minimum wage. I need a raise.

GÓMEZ

Are you a communist, Mr. Seal?

SEAL

I'm just a good ol' boy from Louisiana that believes in free enterprise and a good time. Hey, that Che Guevara's watch?

Seal nods toward gold Rolex on Gómez's wrist-

GÓMEZ

It is. I took it from him right before I had him executed in Bolivia. He cried, wet himself like a child. Your plane is loaded, Mr. Seal. Have a shitty flight back to Mena.

Seal nods mockingly, walks toward the C-123; TWO hostile armed BODYGUARDS pass Seal, approach Gómez, he doesn't acknowledge them, he tends to suitcases and cash from Seal, Bobby revealed as he emerges from behind Bodyguards, stands near Gómez-

BOBBY

The Arms Supermarket is loaded but there's no trucks or transport. What the fuck is going on?

GÓMEZ

Transport is now online. Supply will move out soon. What about the deposits and payments into and out of Colonel North's Enterprise accounts?

BOBBY

Richardson runs them through CSF. North and Bush get everything they need, on time.

GÓMEZ

Keep North happy. He's got more power than he deserves but he can push a button, if he has to. And Bush will back him.

BOBBY

A threat?

GÓMEZ

You bet.

BOBBY

I'm shitting my pants.

GÓMEZ

Keep your hands off Mena, Bobby.

BOBBY

Fuck off Félix.

THE O'JAYS "FOR THE LOVE OF MONEY" PLAYS OVER:

EXT. PARADISE ISLAND CASINO - NIGHT

Mercedes pulls up to dazzling casino, VALET opens rear door, Bobby exits, tips Valet, enters casino, Valet unfolds cash: two one hundred-dollar bills revealed, he smiles.

INT. CASINO CRAPS TABLE - NIGHT

Bobby stands at the table rolling dice and winning, purple five-hundred dollar chips stacked in front of him:

BOBBY (V.O)

There was a hundred-million a month flowing into Mena. The Governor was making so much in cocaine, that it created a problem in a little state like Arkansas. So I had them funnel the drug cash into the Arkansas Development Finance Authority, the ADFA, in exchange for bonds.

Bobby keeps rolling the dice, keeps winning, STICKMAN pushes more stacks of purple chips in front of him:

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)

The cash for the bonds went into banks in Panama, Florida & Georgia that would connect later into BCCI. BCCI sent the money to Citicorp in New York, and they sent it overseas. The bonds were sold and the proceeds were transferred back to ADFA.

(beat)

It was real slick. I took my usual ten percent.

Stickman pushes more and more stacks of purple chips to Bobby.

EXT. HOTEL EL OCOTAL - NIGHT

SUPER: COSTA RICA

MEDEVAC helicopter lands near hotel; American CIA agent/pilot, CHIP TATUM, 30s, shuts it down, climbs out-

INT. HOTEL MEETING ROOM - NIGHT

Seated at conference table in the room: CIA OFFICERS JOE FERNANDEZ, WILLIAM BARR, Félix Gómez, and MOSSAD OFFICER, DAVID SHILOAH, 50s, Chip Tatum enters, takes a seat-

FERNANDEZ

The Contra Enterprise accounts are being drained. Ten million is gone.

GÓMEZ

I've cleared the Ohio and Colorado connections.

BARR

That leaves Arkansas. It's either someone on Clinton's team, or it's Barry Seal.

SHILOAH

What about Vesco?

GÓMEZ

He's too smart and wouldn't take the risk. I dug into his network, his account books reconcile.

SHILOAH

You doubted him, but now you're certain?

GÓMEZ

Ten million is mice nuts to him.
He makes that every month in fees.

SHILOAH

He silently moves & hides hundreds of millions of dollars on a weekly basis, like a goddamn IBM computer. He's pretty good at it. How good are you?

GÓMEZ

Soy muy buena, cabron.

SHILOAH

He has the planes and the yachts. And you have what, Che Guevara's crappy old watch, that's only correct twice a day?

Félix revolves his chair, plants feet, launches an upward unexpected PUNCH into Shiloah's jaw that knocks him off his chair; Shiloah gets up, smiles, assumes a ready position facing Félix, Félix ready, faces Shiloah who lunges at Félix, takes him down swiftly with a jiu-jitsu maneuver-

BARR/FERNANDEZ

(up out of chairs)

Stop it! David! Stop! Get off!

Shiloah's on Félix's back with his arm under Félix's throat, using one hand to brace his arm, he pulls Félix's head upward with his forearm choking Félix out, Félix reaches wildly with his hands, his desperate eyes bulge, he can't breathe, Shiloah isn't choking him out, he's strangling him-

Telephone CRASHES down on Shiloah's head, Chip Tatum towers over Shiloah, unconscious, lying next to Félix-

TATUM

CIA calling for David fuckhead
Shiloah.

Félix catches his breath, pulls himself up to a sitting position coughing, regains his composure-

GÓMEZ
It's gotta be Seal.

EXT. SALVATION ARMY HALFWAY HOUSE - NIGHT

BUTTHOLE SURFERS' "COWBOY BOB" PLAYS OVER:

SUPER: BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA
 FEBRUARY 19, 1986

White 1986 Cadillac Fleetwood parked near metal donation bins, car's windows are shattered, tiny shards of glass, sparkling like diamonds, scattered across the pavement like a half-halo around driver's side, smoke hangs in the air inside the car, it slowly wafts out through the shattered windows-

Bloody Barry Seal slumped forward in driver's seat hemorrhaging profusely, blood pumps out of bullet holes riddling his body in rhythm with his fading heartbeat, his hands are clasped over his ears, multiple bullet holes through his head.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. NICARAGUA JUNGLE - DAY

SUPER: SOUTHERN NICARAGUA
 OCTOBER 5, 1986

SANDINISTA TROOPS chop a path through misty jungle with machetes; DRONING SOUND of plane HEARD, Troops stop chopping, freeze, listen to approaching low-pitch DRONING; Sandinista CAPTAIN, 20s, points to SOLDIER, 18, then to sky, Soldier unslings Soviet SAM-7 missile launcher from his shoulder--

--Soldier preps missile launcher to fire, Captain points above trees behind Soldier as approaching DRONING gets LOUDER, Soldier turns around, hoists missile launcher onto his shoulder, aims it above tree line just as C-123 Cargo plane comes into view, Soldier tracks plane, aims, FIRES missile that SWOOSHES upward in a smoke streak toward C-123, it HITS rear of plane and EXPLODES tail section to bits; plane is forced sideways, straightens a bit, then goes into a BLARING smoky dive beyond the trees-

INT. C-123 CARGO PLANE (CRASHING) - DAY

Dark smoke fills plane as pilot, BILL COOPER tries to steer:

COOPER
 (on radio)
 Fuckin' bent! Ditching! Fat Lady to base, Fat Lady down!
 (turns around quickly)
 Eugene, jump the fuck out!

EUGENE HASENFUS, 45, in rear cargo area wears parachute, looks down, grips chute straps, jumps.

EXT. JUNGLE - DAY

Sandinista Captain yells to Troops:

CAPTAIN
 (points toward plane)
 ¡Vamonos!

Troops run toward diving plane, horrific SOUND of CRACKING TREES is heard, then HUGE RUMBLING EXPLOSION.

INT. BOBBY'S STUDY - NIGHT

SUPER: NASSAU

CBS EVENING NEWS on television, Bobby walks hallway past Study, steps into room to watch DAN RATHER, 54, report:

RATHER
 Tragic news tonight as American pilot, Bill Cooper, was killed when his plane was shot down by the Nicaraguan government. The lone survivor, Eugene Hasenfus, was captured.
 (MORE)

RATHER (CONT'D)

The White House, State Department, and CIA have all disavowed links to a Contra resupply effort that would be in direct violation of the Boland Amendments prohibiting U.S. aid to the Contras.

BOBBY

Holy shit.

INT. MERCEDES (MOVING) - NIGHT

Bobby's in rear seat, talks on phone:

BOBBY

Call them at home, and Rappaport, too. Wire it all to Antigua and Luxembourg... the shell accounts, ninety-one through one-hundred.
Meet me at the dock.

EXT. BOAT DOCK - NIGHT

SUPER: CISTERN CAY, BAHAMAS

Sixty-foot yacht "Salud" secured to dock, Bobby stands near it at end of dock, talks with Tommy, GUARD with submachine gun stands nearby-

TOMMY

I wired it all, just like you said.
Bobby, I gotta tell you something.

BOBBY

Sal called. Trafficante's dead.
Lay low. I'll set a meet with Félix.

EXT. SALUD (CRUISING) - NIGHT

TWO armed GUARDS stand at bow; another GUARD above in flying bridge next to CAPTAIN, scans shoreline with night vision goggles; Bobby's in stern smokes a cigarette, Tommy stands near him, Félix Gómez sits in a chair with a drink-

GÓMEZ

President Noriega has a Mossad assassin advising him, the ghost you know as David Shiloah. Shiloah is the real Number One in Panama.

BOBBY

That fucker's everywhere.

GÓMEZ

Shiloah was involved in the CIA's "Watch Tower" operations, missions that set up a series of electronic beacon towers from Bogota Colombia to Panama. He was working on the authority of the U.S. Army's Southern Command. There were hundreds of these covert flights to Panama.

BOBBY

Noriega protected the deliveries of coke with the blessing of the U.S. Army.

GÓMEZ

He's been on CIA's payroll under former CIA Director Bush for years.

BOBBY

And Shiloah says I'm the one diverting cash from Enterprise accounts?

GÓMEZ

He says it, Bobby. And we looked into it. Shiloah is after you.

BOBBY

It's not me. There is no upside!

GÓMEZ

We're taking intense heat on the Contra mess. Some things are going to happen and then we'll be starting a new thing. So, stick around. If I have to go looking for you, Bobby, no one will ever see you or your family again.

BOBBY

You'll stop Shiloah?

GÓMEZ

Sixty-million, for your safety.

BOBBY

We're not worth that much.

GÓMEZ
Pay it, or play it.

EXT. PARK SIDEWALK - DAY

SUPER: WASHINGTON, D.C.

Washington Monument rises in b.g. as ELLIOTT ABRAMS, 30s, Assistant Secretary of State for Latin America and William Casey--now CIA Director--walk and talk-

ABRAMS
Contra's blown. I've been dancing all week at Senate hearings about the shoot-down. For chrissakes, Bill, you're Director of the CIA, can't you help me?

CASEY
It will all unfold as it will, Elliott.

ABRAMS
I have to testify tomorrow before the Committee on Foreign Affairs. They found a CIA Air America manual in the wreckage and the Vice President's phone number in the pilot's pocket! The first phone call Félix Gómez made was to Bush. Bill, I'm trying to do the right thing here.

Just do what's right, Elliott.

ABRAMS
Yeah, what exactly is that, Bill?!

You'll figure it out.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL - NIGHT

News trucks with satellites, TV NEWS REPORTERS, TECHNICIANS, PRODUCERS, NEWSPAPER REPORTERS, camp in front of hospital; TV NEWSWOMAN, 40s, gives an on-air report:

NEWSWOMAN

CIA Director William Casey was rushed to Georgetown University Hospital today after suffering a brain seizure during a routine medical examination at his office in Langley. Director Casey was to testify tomorrow before the Committee investigating the Iran-Contra affair. Director Casey is said to be the key to exposing the chief players involved in this debacle, and whether it reaches into the Reagan White House.

EXT. TROPICAL VILLA - DAY

Bobby's Mercedes parked near front door of small villa, his two armed BODYGUARDS stand nearby in the shade.

MUTED GRUNTS and MOANS are heard-

INT. BEDROOM - DAY

Sheer white drapes flap in the breeze blowing in through the open sliders off the terrace, the sea is visible beyond-

Beautiful young Cuban woman, LYDIA ALFONSO, 20s, on bed having sex with Bobby, she MOANS LOUDLY, Bobby GRUNTS, she SCREAMS in ecstasy, digs her red fingernails into Bobby's back, he makes a final push and GROANS, collapses onto her breathing rapidly.

DISSOLVE TO:

SAME BEDROOM - A LITTLE LATER

Bobby dresses, naked Lydia lies in bed smoking a cigarette-

LYDIA

Will they kill you?

BOBBY

If they catch me.

LYDIA

How much did you steal?

BOBBY

I didn't steal anything, Lydia. My fees were all earned.

LYDIA

Fine. How much have you earned?

BOBBY

About three-point-six, billion, depending on currency fluctuations.

LYDIA

Shit.

Bobby walks to bed, gives Lydia a kiss-

BOBBY

I'll see you tonight, at the casino?
(walks out)

LYDIA

Yes!

EXT. BEACH - NIGHT

Bobby and Tommy stand on the sand-

TOMMY

I'm flying to D.C. tonight. I'm not sure if I'll be back. The Marshals are going to take my passport tomorrow when I testify.

BOBBY

What are you going to say?

TOMMY

I'm taking the fifth.
(beat)
My lawyers are skinning me alive.
I'm out of funds.

BOBBY

You didn't put anything away?

TOMMY

I did. But I've burned through it.
My paintings aren't selling. I don't want to go to jail. And I don't want to bring you into it.

BOBBY

You're threatening me?

TOMMY

No, Bobby, of course not. I'm desperate. I need your help. ...Are you going to help me or not?!

BOBBY

You should've been smarter. You got sloppy. That Peroff deal?! That was a major fuck up, Tommy. I told you to be sure about him.

TOMMY

You're not going to help me?

They stare at each other. Bobby walks away.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. U.S. SENATE INVESTIGATION CHAMBER - DAY

Subcommittee Chairman, Senator Henry Jackson, presides over hearing, other subcommittee Senators seated; Frank Peroff testifies at witness table-

PEROFF

Following my conversations with Nixon's White House attorneys, I lost my job and was forced into hiding to protect my life. There have been several attempts to kill me! Immediately after I mentioned Mr. Vesco's name and involvement in the heroin smuggling operation to my DEA handlers, they abruptly dropped their investigation.

(beat)

Then, after all of that adversity, the DEA lost the Robert Lee Vesco investigation file. Imagine that?

CHAIRMAN JACKSON

Mr. Peroff, we are well aware of that highly improbable event. Hopefully you will rehabilitate yourself, for the sake of your family.

EXT. ENGLISH HARBOUR - YACHT PATRICIA III (DOCKED) - DAY

SUPER: ANTIGUA

Stately white, one hundred and thirty seven foot triple-deck yacht with "PATRICIA III" inscribed on stern anchored in harbor among smaller yachts; Dawn and Bobby Jr. play tag around the center smokestack on top deck-

INT. PATRICIA III - DAY

Cigarette boats piloted by Tony and Danny HONK and ROAR past the Patricia III, Bobby waves at them from rear lounge; Bobby's interview with FEMALE REPORTER, 40s, in progress:

REPORTER

Are you afraid of being killed?

BOBBY

I worry about two things: publicity, and the shadow people that do crazy things. Like murder and kidnapping.

REPORTER

Shadow people?

BOBBY

Yeah. The people you never see. They're everywhere. Hiding in plain sight.

EXT. PHONE BOOTH - DAY

Sign in b.g. indicates: "NELSON'S DOCKYARD" ANTIGUAN, 40s, stands outside phone booth, talks on phone:

ANTIGUAN

...Royal Police? ...He's here, the most wanted fugitive in America! Robert Vesco is in port now at English Harbour! I claim the reward! ...yes, on the Patricia III. ...yes, Vesco! ... what do you mean nobody's available?

INT. S.E.C. OFFICE - DIRECTOR OF ENFORCEMENT - DAY

Muehler at his desk, talks on phone:

(resigned)

He's in Antigua, now?

MUEHLER (CONT'D)

...Does anyone else care about this or is it just me who is trying to do his job? ...Should I get on a plane? ...No? Of course not. ...Ok, right... yeah, and I'll pretend that I accept and understand this bullshit explanation. Thanks for the call, and go fuck off.

MUEHLER

Adiós motherfucker.

EXT. ENGLISH HARBOUR - DAY

ENNIO MORRICONE'S "CHEYENNE" PLAYS OVER:

The Patricia III cruises out of harbor into the open sea.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. DOCK - DAY

SUPER: BARBUDA

Sixty-foot yacht Salud (same as before) secured to dock, Bobby stands at end of the dock talking with Arthur Gorman, a GUARD with a submachine gun stands nearby.

GORMAN

Your security called me. A sinister guy with a badge is looking for you.

Bobby looks out at tranquil sea-

GORMAN, (CONT'D)

Can I do anything?

They walk the dock toward shore, Guard follows-

BOBBY

I have new business coming in.

GORMAN

Don't do it. You're in deep enough.

BOBBY

I always follow the money, Arthur.

Arthur stares at Bobby a few moments, sadly walks toward the house; Bobby lights a Kool cigarette and watches the sun set behind the Salud; he turns, walks toward the house.

BOAT - SUNSET

Slowly revealed under glaring bright sunset is slow-cruising, dark, fifty-five foot Hatteras with black-clad, fully armed AGENTS aboard, an AGENT peers through binoculars pointed at Bobby as he walks up the steps and enters his house.

EXT. MEDITERRANEAN STYLE MANSION - DUSK

SUPER: LOWER PERUGIA WAY, BEL AIR

Behind iron gates and manicured palms bordering Bel Air Country Club, sprawling Mediterranean home in exclusive Platinum Triangle enclave known as Lower Perugia Way.

INT. LIBRARY/OFFICE - DUSK

Semi-dark library paneled in burl mahogany; Jasper Johns, Jeff Koons, Robert Rauschenberg paintings sit on floor with "SOLD" tags on frames, gray light flows in through windows on the antique desk, a bottle of Pappy Van Winkle's Family Reserve Bourbon and a half-filled Baccarat cut crystal rocks glass sit on the desk, Tommy leans on the desk talking on the phone:

TOMMY

We're like blood brothers, fucking family! ...okay, I know, but I just got sentenced to six years in federal prison, man! I won't do prison! ...killers are out there. You're not invincible. I know your soft spots. You're going down. Like they say, it'll happen to you gradually, then suddenly. ...fuck you! We are in the innermost Judecca zone of the ninth and final circle. ...yeah, it has been a ride, but in the end, you blew it, you motherfucker.

(hangs up)

Room almost completely dark, weary Tommy takes a gulp of bourbon, slowly slides his hand over a chrome and pearl Colt .45 semiautomatic sitting on the desk, picks it up, pulls back the slide, stares at it, considers it carefully, raises it-

INT. KITCHEN - NIGHT

-Bobby stands still, stares at the phone handset in his hand, slowly hangs up phone, somewhat dazed he stares at the stove and pan of frying Italian sausages-

SHILOAH (O.S.)

Don Roberto!

Bobby shocked, turns quickly, faces David Shiloah-

SHILOAH

How are you, my man? It's been a while.

BOBBY

What the fuck! Can't you knock?

SHILOAH

Not my nature. I'm the quiet type.

BOBBY

Jesus, I almost had a heart attack. Then you wouldn't get shit from me.

SHILOAH

I know C-P-R, Bob. So, this is your little hideout? It's very nice, but not much of a hideout, is it?

(beat)

Account numbers and passcodes. All of them. Now.

BOBBY

Get the fuck in line. How about a sausage?

(turns to stove)

SHILOAH

Funny, Momo Giancana, head of the Chicago Mob offered his assassin, Johnny Roselli a sausage, right before he took seven slugs into the back of his head.

BOBBY
 (turns around)
 Where is my fucking Security?!

SHILOAH
 Sleeping. You should get a refund.

Shiloah walks closer to Bobby-

SHILOAH
 The Patricia is wired with C-4. If I don't get the numbers and codes, you can say bye-bye to the Vesco family.

BOBBY
 I was planning to leave them anyway.
 They're all spoiled rotten brats.
 (picks up pan)

SHILOAH
 Cut the tough-guy shit, Bob. Let's get the numbers and codes. C'mon.

Bobby slides cooked sausages onto a plate, turns suddenly and swings the pan at Shiloah's head--Shiloah easily grabs Bobby's wrist, takes the pan from him, sets it on the counter-

SHILOAH
 My daughter has better moves than that.

BOBBY
 Fuck your daughter and all the-

Shiloah punches Bobby in the gut, he drops down to his knees unable to breathe-

SHILOAH
 You've been watching too much TV.

Shiloah grabs Bobby under the arm and lifts him to his feet,
 Bobby gasps for air-

SHILOAH
 Come on now. I've already had my workout today, walk. Your office?
 Okay, let's go, c'mon, walk.

Shiloah walks Bobby out of the kitchen into the living room-

SOUND of a LOUD THUD-

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Shiloah unconscious on floor, Bobby stares down at him in disbelief, he looks at Félix Gómez-

GÓMEZ

Just like TV, huh Bob? I owed him that, from our last little tussle.
(grins at him)

BOBBY

You spooky fucks materialize out of thin air.

EXT. SALUD - NIGHT

Yacht motors slowly near the shore-

INT. SALUD - NIGHT

THREE new BODYGUARDS stand at stern, Bobby sits above in flying bridge peering through night vision binoculars, Félix stands next to him-

GÓMEZ

You're our point man for Panama.

BOBBY

(lowers binoculars)
What war are you funding now?

GÓMEZ

Overthrowing Noriega and looting his banks. Operation "Just Cause."
It'll be over in five days.

BOBBY

What about Shiloah?

GÓMEZ

It's his plan.

Bobby looks at him-

GÓMEZ

Drop me off at that pier, there.

BOBBY

And Shiloah? What about the C-4 wired to the Patricia? My family?

GÓMEZ

I've been following him. No C-4.
He was bluffing.

BOBBY

You're sure?

GÓMEZ

I'm pretty sure.

Bobby stares at him, Félix climbs down to the deck, yacht motors up alongside a vacant pier, IDLES next to it-

GÓMEZ

I found the numbers and codes. You excel at many things, Bob, like hiding stuff. You're almost the best there is. Then there's me.

Bobby stares at him-

GÓMEZ (CONT'D)

I figured you would've had more secured. Must be your lifestyle.

(beat)

Don't worry, I left you with a mil. You're still the "millionaire fugitive."

Félix jumps down onto the pier, runs quietly away, Bobby watches him go, Félix disappears into the darkness-

BOBBY

(to himself)

Decoy codes, you dumbshit.

Bobby pushes throttles forward, cruises yacht away from pier.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. CAR (MOVING) - NIGHT

Félix Gómez in driver's seat, radio on, NEWSCASTER reports:

NEWSCASTER (V.O.)

David Shiloah, an Israeli reputed to be General Manuel Noriega's closest advisor eluded capture when the United States invaded Panama.

(MORE)

NEWSCASTER (V.O.) (CONT'D)

He was apparently warned to flee six hours before American troops swept into the capital. The location of Mr. Shiloah, who is said to have trained General Noriega's elite security forces, has been a mystery.

GÓMEZ

(turns radio off)

I just love a good mystery, don't you?

Shiloah sits in front passenger seat.

EXT. CARIBBEAN SEA/SALUD - NIGHT

VFX: Brutal storm rages--THUNDER & LIGHTNING--harrowing twenty-foot swells, driving rain-

Salud rides the swells and lurches into the deep troughs with speed and determination-

INT. SALUD CABIN - NIGHT

Three Bodyguards, scared, seasick and puking, clutch the galley table tightly, pots, pans, cups, etc., fall, slide and bounce throughout the wet interior of the cabin-

EXT. SALUD BRIDGE - NIGHT

Bobby wears a harness secured with a cable to the bridge, he grasps the wheel, fights against the sea as he struggles to keep the Salud aimed into the rising and crashing swells, the yacht is swamping but continues its struggle against the sea-

EXT. CARIBBEAN SEA - DAWN

Sea is calm, sparkles brightly as sun rises over Pointe Blanche, Sint Maarten-

EXT. SALUD - DAWN

-Salud has taken a beating from the storm, it's half-submerged, barely moves forward, sinking slowly in sight of Great Bay, Pointe Blanche--

--Exhausted and bleary-eyed, Bobby grips the wheel, his three Bodyguards are soaked, sick, disheveled and huddled in dread on deck as rising sea water laps near them-

EXT. HATTERAS - DAWN

-Closing quickly on the Salud from behind is a Hatteras resembling the one the Agents had been using to surveil Bobby at his Barbuda home; Bobby takes a blistered hand off the wheel, points to speeding Hatteras, the Bodyguards turn and stare anxiously at the Hatteras pulling alongside the Salud, it cuts its ENGINES, the Bodyguards panic, pull their wet pistols from their holsters, the THREE-MAN Hatteras CREW, 20s, raise their hands in fear-

BOBBY

Fools! Put them away!

Bodyguards holster their weapons-

BOBBY (CONT'D)

(to Crewmen)

Can you help us, please?

Hatteras CREWMEN slowly lower their hands and throw Bodyguards lines to secure the two boats together; name on the stern of the Hatteras: "RACHEL"

Rachel cruises slowly, pulling the Salud into harbor; sign at the marina indicates: "DOCK MAARTEN, SINT MAARTEN"

EXT. MOTEL ROOM - NIGHT

Bobby, in weakened state, is hurried out of ground floor motel room barely on his feet sandwiched and held by Two Bodyguards each carrying a suitcase, they run to car with trunk and doors open, Bobby gets in rear seat of car as Bodyguards pitch suitcases into trunk, close it, climb into car, SLAM doors, SQUEAL away-

INT. CAR (MOVING) - NIGHT

Bobby's very ill, his Bodyguard/Pilot drives-

BG/PILOT

I have a Gulfstream waiting at Juliana.

BOBBY

Where are we going?

BG/PILOT

Managua.

BOBBY

Where is Pat?

BG/PILOT

I sent for her. She's on her way.

BOBBY

I need a doctor. I'm pissing blood.

BG/PILOT

I've radioed ahead. He'll meet us there.

BOBBY

Who's providing our jet?

BG/PILOT

Pablo Escobar.

In severe pain, Bobby closes his eyes.

INT. HOTEL ROOM - DAY

SUPER: MANAGUA, NICARAGUA

Bobby, frail and pale, lies in bed, DOCTOR, 50s, finishes up examination, Pat is near the bed, BG/Pilot stands by door-

DOCTOR

You have acute uremic poisoning, Mr. Vesco and a very high fever; your kidneys are failing. I'm sorry but Nicaragua does not have a Urologist here nor the medical facilities to treat you.

BOBBY

Where can I go?

DOCTOR

You have limited choices, considering your, political status.

BOBBY

Where?

DOCTOR

Moscow, Budapest, or Havana. Or you will die. I will give you a few minutes.

Doctor exits-

PAT

God, I wish I was back in Detroit.
I wish-

BOBBY

-Me too, sweetheart.

(beat)
How could you?
(steps close)

BOBBY

Because, I've had enough of this.

PAT

Do you know what I'm talking about?

BOBBY

You want to go home. I know. I've been dragging you all over. I wish-

Pat SLAPS him hard across the face-

PAT

No! You stupid fucking bastard! You slept with that, that Cuban whore!

(cries)

I could barely manage this life, with you, but I did, for my kids.
I hated it. Everyone always whispering about us, calling us thieves, laughing at us behind our backs.
But I held it together. While you stole and dealt drugs, and ruined our lives! I must have been crazy.
And then you do this to me, with that, that girl. A girl. You just, you killed me Bobby.

(MORE)

PAT (CONT'D)

You're a bastard and a sleazy crook.
I can't take it anymore. I won't take it, anymore.

Pat wipes her eyes, stares at Bobby, she looks away as he looks at her-

BOBBY

Patricia.

She turns, walks out, door closes-

BOBBY (CONT'D)

(beat; to BG/Pilot)

Have Lydia meet us at the airport.

EXT. AUGUSTO C. SANDINO AIRPORT - DAY

Black sedan approaches parked Air Cubana Ilyushin jet, stops, Bodyguard helps weak, very ill Bobby exit car, Lydia exits car, walks to Bobby, guides him up the plane's stairs-

INT. PLANE (FLYING) - DAY

Bobby sits next to Lydia-

LYDIA

It may not have fancy supermarkets or restaurants, but you will find life in Cuba very tranquil, and safe for you. For us. We'll start a new life together.

BOBBY

Look, I'm nervous. I'm jumping over the wall here. And there's going to be no way I can ever get back to the other side.

(beat)

This, is very, serious.

(falls asleep)

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. CIMEQ MILITARY HOSPITAL - DAY

SUPER: HAVANA, CUBA

PEOPLE enter, exit, GUARDS stand in front, an ambulance with SIREN SQUEALING races up to the emergency entrance-

INT. HOSPITAL ROOM - DAY

-Ambulance SIREN is heard, hazy sunlight filters through the open dirty window, a weak breeze blows the frayed curtains, Bobby lies in an old bed in the grimy room with old-fashioned equipment as DOCTOR, 60s, stands by the bed-

DOCTOR

Everything looks very good for a complete recovery. You should live a long life here.

DOCTOR (CONT'D)

Cheer up, Mr. Vesco. You could be dead.

Bobby stares despondently out the dirty window, Lydia enters.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. S.E.C. OFFICE - DIRECTOR OF ENFORCEMENT - DAY

SOUND of telephone RINGING, RINGING, RINGING...

Muehler sits at his desk with his arms folded, he stares at the phone with utter contempt: RINGING, RINGING, RINGING...

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. WHITE MANSION - DAY

SUPER: MARINA HEMINGWAY, HAVANA

INT. STUDY - DAY

Telephone RINGING, RINGING, RINGING- Bobby gets up from the chair, walks to his desk, answers RINGING telephone:

BOBBY

Vesco... Yes, Your Excellency.

EXT. YACHT - DAY

Sleek white yacht "YARAMA" cruises Havana Harbor-

INT. YARAMA - DAY

CREWMEN serve Bobby lunch and drinks, he sits at elegant table in stern with FIDEL CASTRO, 60s, they eat, drink, and talk-

CASTRO

I gave you a very nice house, Bob, in the marina, so you can dock your yacht. Personal security guards. You have freedom and enjoy a good life here.

BOBBY

Yes, Excellency, you have been very generous to me. Thank you again.

CASTRO

We made a lot of money together with our Colombian friends. But look now at Carlos Lehder, he is serving a life sentence plus one-hundred and thirty-five years, he'll die in jail. And Noriega, "Señor Pineapple," he is serving forty-years. He will become rotten fruit. Pablo Escobar, he was slaughtered. And George Bush became President, and Bill Clinton, he is now President. And Bill Casey is--where is Bill Casey? American politicians, Bobby, they were the real winners. They reaped the evil spoils of the wars they fought and financed with cocaine. We were clever to divert a small portion of their vast profits to assist poor Cuba's Revolución, to help her continue her valiant battle against the evil of imperialism... And you? You take refuge here with me. Mossad waits for you. The CIA stole your money. America the beautiful, your sweet Mother, has disowned you. You are an orphan. There is no honor among thieves, spies, or politicians.

BOBBY

I am honored to dine with you, Excellency.

CASTRO

Me too. There is an impending mission of great importance awaiting us.

BOBBY

What would you like me to do?

CASTRO

Russia Prime Minister, Viktor Chernomyrdin, is expecting your call.

(passes a piece of paper)

BOBBY

(looks at paper)

The Prime Minister? What will we discuss?

CASTRO

You will talk about the strategy to reallocate billions of U.S. dollars in loans to Russia by the IMF, to Cuba. Call Viktor. The Revolución!

(clinks Bobby's glass)

Salud!

(drinks)

BOBBY

Salud!

(drinks)

They continue feasting, drinking and speaking M.O.S. during Bobby's Voice Over:

BOBBY (V.O.)

The International Monetary Fund--the IMF--was established to provide financial aid to poor and debt-burdened countries. A noble mission. And on the surface, it is. But underneath it there is no system of accountability for the billions of dollars in aid they provide. Once they pass out the cash, it's in the wind. The do-gooders don't have a clue where it goes and no mechanism to track it. When Russia crumbled, the IMF stepped in to bail it out, under the direction of Vice President, Al Gore.

(MORE)

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)

It was an opportunity of enormous magnitude. Boris Yeltsin, Prime Minister Chernomyrdin, and ex-KGB hosted an invitation-only orgy for Russia. The world's finest financial thieves came to cut, quarter, loot, and launder one hundred and forty billion-dollars out of Russia over the next few years. We gorged ourselves on all of her raw assets, and picked her carcass clean.

Suddenly--Bobby gets up from table, knocks over his glass of red wine, grabs onto yacht's railing, pukes overboard, pukes again, and hangs his head in shame-

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)

It was depraved. Beyond all limits. We systematically fucked over every Russian man, woman, and child. We stole their future. We condemned them to life-long poverty.

Bobby straightens, takes a napkin offered by CREWMAN, he wipes his mouth, staggers toward the interior of the yacht-

Castro, bewildered, watches him from the table, he resumes eating and drinking-

BOBBY (V.O.) (CONT'D)

And my partner, Fidel? He made sure I never saw a dime. What I traded for protection, would never be recovered.

INT. MANSION STUDY - DAY

SUPER: MARINA HEMINGWAY, HAVANA 1995

Bobby sleeps on couch--KNOCK on door--door opens, Félix enters, closes door, walks to Bobby, bends and tugs at his arm, Bobby wakes-

GÓMEZ
(whispers)
Buenos días, Bob.

BOBBY
Félix? How did you get in-

GÓMEZ
-C'mon, we gotta go now.

BOBBY (sits up)
Go, where?

GÓMEZ
Detroit, Bob.

BOBBY Detroit?
(stands)
How will we get there?

GÓMEZ
I have a big yacht waiting in the marina. But we have to go right now.
(takes Bobby by arm)
C'mon, Bob.

They walk toward door-

BOBBY
(confused)
Yacht? We'll need a plane.

GÓMEZ
Pat and the kids are here, too.

BOBBY

Pat is here? With my kids? This is really great, Félix! How did you do it?

GÓMEZ

(walks to door)

Magic, Bob. Shadow people magic.

VFX: Félix dissolves as he floats through the closed door, Bobby follows, HITS DOOR, rubs his face, confused, he looks at door, touches it with his hand-

STUDY

Bobby wakes abruptly on couch, stares at the ceiling, wipes his mouth with his hand, gets up, walks to window--the visage of his weary, 60-year-old bearded face reflects off the window pane as he peers outside--perched on a low tree branch right outside the window is a rare, Giant Kingbird, endemic to Cuba and very endangered after having disappeared from the Bahamas, Costa Rica, and Antigua, it gazes intently at Bobby-

-KNOCK on door, door opens-

SLOW MOTION: Bobby watches the Giant Kingbird fly away--he turns away from the window, looks toward the door, TWO armed Cuban DGI AGENTS, 40s, enter the room and stop-

DGI #1

Señor Vesco, you are under arrest on charges of being an agent of foreign special services. And of economic fraud.

BOBBY

Economic fraud?

(laughs)

Are you fucking kidding?

DGI #2 walks to Bobby, puts handcuffs on his wrists, DGI Agents take Bobby by the arms, lead him out of the study, Bobby stops in the doorway, turns, looks into room, turns, and walks out, DGI #2 CLOSES the door-

BLACK SCREEN

BLACK SABBATH'S "KILLING YOURSELF TO LIVE" PLAYS OVER:

SUPER: Cuba's Foreign Ministry Spokesperson, Marianela Ferriol, reiterated that Cuba had not refused to extradite Vesco and called the U.S. State Department's spokesman a liar.

SUPER: Robert Vesco served 9 years in jail. Upon his release in 2005 he contracted lung cancer.

SERIES OF PHOTOGRAPHS:

- Bobby, 71, coughing and clearly in pain in a hospital bed
- Bobby lies in a plain wooden casket with his Cuban wife, Lydia looking down and crying over him
- A small group of people attending his burial

EXT. CEMENTERIO DE CRISTÓBAL CÓLÓN - NIGHT

The endless succession of glossy white tombs eerily radiate under the dim moonlight, empty tombs and desecrated family chapels disfigure the stately march of Cuban family memorials within the elegant & grand 150-year-old cemetery.

EXT. GRAVE - NIGHT
