

IVORY

An original screenplay by Janet Lee Rose

A passionate veterinarian travels to Kenya, when poachers take everything away from her; she is swept into a bloody battle of justice, and is joined by an unlikely ally, a mercenary haunted by his past.

ANDREA, a newly graduated veterinarian comes to Kenya to join her fiancée, Dylan, at a national park for conservation work. She is eager for a fun adventure.

Reality hits fast when she is faced with a passionless marriage and an unruly mercenary, named MARKUS, who raids the conservation's supplies.

Andrea's naïve belief that Kenya would welcome her is completely overturned when poachers kill a herd of elephants, pillaging their tusks for ivory and stealing GPS locators. She cannot imagine things getting worse until she finds Dylan's slain body.

Ravaged by grief she leaves to return home but is stopped when Markus asks for her help. Their journey takes them across Kenya to retrieve the GPS locators and Andrea is faced with cruelty, danger, and prejudice.

When a betrayal and narrow escape leave them hopeless, Andrea and Markus must decide if the two of them are enough to stop the trafficking of ivory.

IVORY is a character driven drama with an explosive storyline set against the untamed beauty of Africa. Drama, justice, love, and hope.
